Hefty Pensions May Lure Solons Into Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lure of hefty pensions and the political uncertainties of redistricting may produce a bumper crop of voluntary retirements from the House this year.

Some elder statesmen are losing their zest for a tough reelection fight. They are considering retiring to front-porch rocking chairs and waiting for the postman to deliver fat monthly annuity checks.

The checks could total as much as $34,000 a year in some cases. That's the maximum for members who retire after March 1 of this year. It is based on the average of a member's three highest salary years and length of service.

The current congressional pay of $42,500 a year went into effect on March 1, 1969.

No member who retires may receive more than 80 per cent of the $42,500, or $34,000. To qualify for that he must have served at least 32 years, of

Report King Frederik Now Worse

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The condition of Denmark's King Frederik deteriorated further today and he appeared to be slipping into unconsciousness at Copenhagen's Municipal Hospital.

A medical bulletin said the 72-year-old monarch, who was hospitalized nine days ago after a heart attack, was "somewhat weaker" this morning.

"The condition is marked by failing blood circulation in the brain. The consciousness is increasingly blurred," the bulletin said.

A temperature of 102.4 was reported, somewhat less than the 103 reported Tuesday morning. Specialists said the fever was probably due to recurrence of the pneumonia from which the king was suffering before his heart attack, another infection or possibly a blood clot in the lungs.

The three spacemen will discuss their experiences on the lunar flight with scientists in both countries and speak with university audiences, a spokesman said Monday.

Reds Step Up War Tempo In Vietnam

Air Base Hit, Copter Downed In New Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces today made the third attack in less than two weeks on a U.S. air base in the Vietnam war, shot down an American helicopter, killing all four crewmen, and intensified attacks across South Vietnam to their highest level in three months.

The U.S. Command also announced that an Air Force F4 jet bombed and apparently destroyed an anti-aircraft missile battery in the Laotian panhandle near Sepone shortly after it fired two missiles at another American plane Tuesday.

The Army UH1 helicopter was shot down Tuesday while supporting South Vietnamese operations south of the U Minh forest in the Mekong Delta, about 165 miles southwest of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese military command reported 34 enemy attacks on its military units and Vietnamese civilians during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. Wednesday. It was the highest number since the first week of October.

The most serious attack was a Viet Cong ambush of a platoon of 30 government militiamen in the Mekong Delta about 90 miles south of Saigon. Field reports said three government soldiers were killed, 11 were missing and six were wounded.

There was speculation that the attacks on the U.S. air bases were in retaliation for the massive American air attacks on North Vietnam late last month. The target today was the big Bien Hoa base 15 miles northeast of Saigon, and two Viet Cong sappers slipped past South Vietnamese and American guards to blow up a stockpile of small arms ammunition.

One of the sappers was killed when he triggered a claymore mine on his way out, the 7th Air Force reported. The other escaped.

No other casualties were reported.

Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., who has announced his retirement at the end of this year after 20 years of service will be eligible for a $21,250 pension if he has participated in the retirement plan. Names of participants are not made public, but most members have signed up.

Poff, who will be 50 next year, would have faced a reelection contest against incumbent William C. Wampler, also a Republican, because of redistricting in Virginia.

Similar problems confront some other House members who are considering retirement rather than a hard and costly campaign against a colleague.

Of the House members who already have announced their intention to retire voluntarily, two are top Republicans on major committees.

One is John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking minority member on the Ways and Means committee.

Youth Is Slain In Belfast House

BELFAST, North Ireland (AP) — A youth was found shot to death today in a house in Belfast and sources said he may have been killed by an Irish Republican Army disciplinary squad.

The boy of about 16 was found in a pool of blood in the house in North Bannside Park, an IRA stronghold. A pistol was found beneath his body and another one was hidden in a couch in the living room.

A statement, reportedly from the Belfast IRA, said the boy's death was an accident but gave no explanation.

It was the 209th violent death in the British-ruled province since the fall of 1969 and the third this year.

North Vietnamese are building up to something in South Vietnam, with 15,000 fresh troops in or en route to the central highlands and three divisions re-emerging in the region of the demilitarized zone.

The consensus among American military and diplomatic officials is that the Communist campaign in Laos is designed to force Premier Souvanna Phouma to ask the United States to stop the massive bombing in his country and give North Vietnam free rein to use the country as a staging area.

"All these things they do in Laos and Cambodia are undoubtedly pointed to their long-range objective of making it easier to gain control of South Vietnam," says one American expert.

Some senior U.S. officials say the buildup in the central highlands is far bigger than any

Two of the dozen Democrats entered in Florida's presidential primary prepared for a second day of campaigning in the state today and waited to see whether the field would diminish.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey planned to visit a black neighborhood and attend a senior citizens' dance in St. Petersburg.

Sen. Vance Hartke moved into Miami today, continuing the Florida campaign he kicked off with a burst of confidence in Tallahassee Tuesday.

"I will win in Florida as I will win in New Hampshire," said the Indiana Democrat.

Florida Secretary of State Richard Stone announced a list of 12 to be on the Democratic ballot in the March 14 primary, but any one may remove his own name from the ticket by filing a declaration of non-candidacy by Feb. 15.

In Washington, a spokesman for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said the Massachusetts Democrat would file the affidavit to get out of the race.

Stone said he suspects Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas also may order his name stricken from the ballot.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who ran as an American Independent party candidate in 1968, was expected to announce in Tallahassee Thursday that he will stay in the Florida primary.

In the North, Republicans prepared to open campaign headquarters in Concord, N.H., for President Nixon.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, will preside at the ceremonies Thursday after meeting with former New Hampshire Gov. Lane Dwinell, the Nixon campaign chairman in that state.

There were these other developments in presidential primary states Tuesday:

Ohio—Humphrey announced plans to campaign there Jan. 18 and to offer a full slate of 153 delegates in the May 2 primary.

Illinois—Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota will offer full delegates slates in up to 17 of the state's 24 congressional districts, although he

Rahman Shuns Presidency In Reorganized Bangladesh

DACCA (AP) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman gave up the presidency of Bangladesh today to become prime minister after ordering a parliamentary government for Asia's newest nation.

Mujib, named president by other Bangladesh leaders while he was a prisoner in West Pakistan, issued a provisional constitution Tuesday night concentrating governmental power in the hands of the prime minister. The presidency became largely a ceremonial office.

The constitutional order provides that the parliament will be made up of persons elected a year ago to the East Pakistani state legislature and to the Pakistani National Assembly that never met. There was no indication when the new parliament would meet, but Mujib became prime minister as the unchallenged leader of the majority party.

Mujib, who is 51, took the oath of office 51 hours after his return to Dhacca.

Abu Sayeed Choudhury, a former judge who has been the Bangladesh movement's chief spokesman in London and New York, was sworn in as president.

In the Pakistani general elections in December 1970, Mujib's Awami League won 298 of the 310 seats in the provincial legislature and 167 of the 169 National Assembly seats allotted to East Pakistan. Neither body was ever convened. This led to civil war in East Pakistan, culminating in India's liberation of the territory and the establishment of Bangladesh as an independent nation.

The number of nations recognizing Bangladesh increased today to six, four of them Communist, as Poland and Mongolia joined the group. East Germany and Bulgaria started the ball rolling in the Soviet bloc Tuesday, but so far there was no word from Moscow.

India was the first nation to recognize Bangladesh, followed by one of its junior partners in the Himalayas, Bhutan.

Britain and France also are considered likely to extend recognition.

Raging Wind, Snow Storm Lashes Northern States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm packing hurricane-force winds and heavy snow whipped across the western mountains and northern Great Plains today.

Travel warnings were posted from Washington to Nebraska, while blizzard warnings covered most of Montana. Heavy-snow warnings extended as far east as Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Sustained winds of 100 miles per hour ripped through western Wyoming and gusts well over 100 rocked Livingston, Mont.

The wind toppled six mobile homes at a mobile home park in Boulder, Colo., and blew two others off their foundations.

Schools were closed Tuesday in seven counties of southeastern Idaho as snowdrifts made roadways impassable. More than 100 persons in the Swan Valley near the Wyoming line were cut off from other communities by drifts.

At Lander, Wyo., where wind gusts of 88 m.p.h. were recorded, traffic was limited to emergency vehicles and rural school buses were escorted by snow plows.

A failure in a telephone microwave system blacked out communication of all sorts across much of Montana as the storm moved in Tuesday, keeping ing much of the state from hearing the National Weather Service's blizzard warnings. The cause of the failure was being investigated.

Damage to power lines and buildings was reported along the eastern slopes of the Colorado Rockies.

An arctic air mass sweeping into Montana was expected to follow the storm into the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region with bitterly cold weather.

State Pay Hikes Said Essential

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association Tuesday told the House Finance Committee the new state employees pay hike bill "is absolutely essential to lift the majority of state employees above the poverty level."

OCSEA Executive Secretary James F. Marshall urged that the House immediately pass the Gilligan administration's measure.

Noting that Ohio's employees have been traditionally the lowest paid in the entire economy, Marshall said he doubted the pay board would "refuse such an obvious need."

Finance Director Harold A. Hovey told the committee the $98 million dollar pay package has caused considerable confusion in Washington. He said he was not sure how the Federal Pay Board would process the increases.

Hovey said increases for county welfare workers will eventually be borne by the federal government. Most state universities, he said, have already used the combination of state subsidies and tuition to increase the pay of academic and non-academic employees.

Hearings on the pay bill resumed Wednesday.

Great Lakes Cleanup Set

U.S. And Canada Near Agreement

TORONTO (AP)—A treaty between the United States and Canada to clean up the lower Great Lakes likely will be signed this spring, according to George Kerr, Ontario environment minister.

The two nations agreed in principle last June to stop pollution in Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Canada and the Province of Ontario have each pledged $250 million by 1975, with the U.S. expected to provide $2.25 billion as its share of the cleanup program.

It was reported in November that the two countries had agreed on a preamble setting out the board principles and on six of nine treaty annexes. The two nations were hung up on two annexes governing commercial shipping and one on control of phosphates.

Washington has eased off its opposition to legislation for phosphate control at the state level and is coming to view that commercial ships need holding tanks for sewage, Kerr said.

The minister said there will be a staging of these regulations, "for example requiring lake steamers to immediately have this type of holding tank, whereas for ocean-going vessels it would not be mandatory immediately because of the worldwide ramifications for ship design."

Kerr added there also is the question of ballast water which a ship might pick up at the Atlantic and dump in the Great Lakes. "We want definite control over that," he said.

Railroad Crew Law Weakened By Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate was to vote today on a bi-partisan plan for reducing Ohio's 24 congressional districts to 23. The House approved the measure last week.

The bill was voted out of the Senate Elections and Retirement Committee Tuesday after the committee made some small changes. Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, committee chairman, said all the congressmen affected by the amendments had agreed to them.

The compromise proposal, developed in the House State Government Committee, preserves the Republican hold on 16 seats and leaves the Democrats the seven they now have.

The 24th seat, now controlled by Republicans, is to be eliminated, because Ohio's population didn't grow during the 60s as fast as the U.S. population did overall.

In floor action Tuesday, the Senate voted to repeal Ohio's full crew law, but not before it passed an amendment to the repeal bill that made the action virtually meaningless.

The full crew law, one of four in the country, requires five men on freight train crews, including a fireman. The railroads claim a fireman hasn't been needed since diesels took over. Unions say the extra pay (Continued on Page 24)

Draft Rule Changes Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service today proposed rules directing that a man be told why if his application for deferment or exemption is rejected. Under present regulations, he doesn't have the right to know and usually isn't told.

The revisions also give those—such as students—who have been granted long delays in being called up a somewhat better chance to seek deferment or exemption due to hardship or conscience objection.

The changes were published in the Federal Register and go into effect in mid-February unless challenged. They come in the wake of protests in Congress and elsewhere that some proposed rule changes issued last Nov. 2 were unfair. Other rules proposed then, such as phasing out student deferments, became effective Dec. 10.

As a result of the criticism draft Director Curtis W. Tarr suspended all calls for personal appearances before boards and state appeal board actions to give all draft-eligible men the benefit of the rule changes proposed today. The suspensions will remain in effect until the latest revisions become effective.

In response to an avalanche of mail criticizing a proposed new form for conscientious objector applicants, Tarr has proposed another, simpler form appearing in the Federal Register.

Claim Mars Still 'Living'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mars may still be a "living" planet, scientists say.

"Clearly, Mars has active surface processes... whereas before, we weren't sure whether we were looking at a fossil surface like the moon," said Dr. Bruce Murray, one of the scientists who have been studying photographs taken by Mariner 9.

Murray and other scientists of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory agreed Tuesday that volcanoes once dotted the red planet and played a big role in shaping Mars. Geological evolution beneath the surface may be continuing now, they report.

The scientists also said that there are signs of erosion, much like that on earth, caused by gases and liquids.

The laboratory made public Tuesday more of the recent photos that have given scientists their best look at the Martian surface.

One showed a series of strange pits and hollows, some about two miles across, about 500 miles from the planet's south pole.

"The process that might duplicate this type of pitted topography on earth is so out of phase with what we've thought about Mars that it's just amazing," said Dr. Robert Sharp, a Caltech geologist. "It means there are some very unusual conditions or events on Mars."

which 5 years could have been in military service and the remaining 27 in Congress.

Service in other federal agencies also may be counted under some conditions.

Members pay 8 per cent of their salary into the retirement fund, with the federal taxpayers matching that.

The amount of pension is determined by multiplying the number of years of eligibility by 2½ per cent.

Members who retire or are defeated for re-election without acquiring the maximum years of service and reaching age 62 may receive reduced benefits starting generally at age 50.

Great Lakes Cleanup Set

U.S. And Canada Near Agreement

TORONTO (AP)—A treaty between the United States and Canada to clean up the lower Great Lakes likely will be signed this spring, according to George Kerr, Ontario environment minister.

The two nations agreed in principle last June to stop pollution in Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Canada and the Province of Ontario have each pledged $250 million by 1975, with the U.S. expected to provide $2.25 billion as its share of the cleanup program.

It was reported in November that the two countries had agreed on a preamble setting out the board principles and on six of nine treaty annexes. The two nations were hung up on two annexes governing commercial shipping and one on control of phosphates.

Washington has eased off its opposition to legislation for phosphate control at the state level and is coming to view that commercial ships need holding tanks for sewage, Kerr said.

The minister said there will be a staging of these regulations, "for example requiring lake steamers to immediately have this type of holding tank, whereas for ocean-going vessels it would not be mandatory immediately because of the worldwide ramifications for ship design."

Kerr added there also is the question of ballast water which a ship might pick up at the Atlantic and dump in the Great Lakes. "We want definite control over that," he said.

1972 Seen Crucial Year For Indochina War

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Big North Vietnamese gains in Laos and Cambodia, two major enemy buildup along South Vietnam's western borders and new challenges to U.S. air power signal a crucial year ahead for Washington and Saigon.

U.S. officials in Saigon term the situation in Laos critical. But informed sources say there are strong indications that the North Vietnamese are building up to something in South Vietnam, with 15,000 fresh troops in or en route to the central highlands and three divisions re-emerging in the region of the demilitarized zone.

The consensus among American military and diplomatic officials is that the Communist campaign in Laos is designed to force Premier Souvanna Phouma to ask the United States to stop the massive bombing in his country and give North Vietnam free rein to use the country as a staging area.

"All these things they do in Laos and Cambodia are undoubtedly pointed to their long-range objective of making it easier to gain control of South Vietnam," says one American expert.

Some senior U.S. officials say the buildup in the central highlands is far bigger than any previous one in that area. But despite the buildup and the deteriorating situation in Laos, President Nixon appears to have committed himself to further withdrawal of U.S. troops in February at the rate of at least 22,500 a month.

With Korean, Thai and Australian troops also pulling out, the South Vietnamese army's regulars are spread thin. The much-heralded militia force of half a million men, which is supposed to defend the interior of South Vietnam, is often no match for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Concerned over the buildup in the central highlands and further withdrawals by its allies, the South Vietnamese government has abandoned most of its major bases in eastern Cambodia so the troops who have been there can operate closer

Confession Standards Are Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held in a 4 to 3 decision today that courts need not determine "beyond a reasonable doubt" that the confession of a criminal defendant was voluntary before admission into evidence.

"Courts need only to determine," the majority said, that a confession was voluntary "by a preponderance of the evidence."

The decision came in an appeal by Don Richard Lego which sought to overturn his 1961 Illinois armed robbery conviction.

Lego maintained that the trial judge should have determined whether his confession was voluntary beyond reasonable doubt before admitting it into evidence.

Lego said he was questioned by police for four hours and beaten with a gun butt. The statement also contained the sentence, Lego said, "No, I refuse to sign this statement, I want to see a doctor and an attorney."

The trial judge determined that the confession was admissible at a hearing with the jury absent.

Stock List Posts Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices on the stock market rose on a broad front today, some of the blue-chip issues taking part in the upswing. Trading was active.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.06 at 916.1.

Advances on the Big Board were ahead of declines, almost 2 to 1.

One analyst, John Smith of Fehnestock & Co., said the market was benefitting from additional foreign buying.

"I don't think there is any question that this is offsetting profit-taking," he commented. The London and Tokyo exchanges have been "surging" lately, he added, and with recent currency devaluation foreigners can buy American stocks cheaper than before.

Steels, electronics, and chemicals were among the issues on the gaining side, but utilities were mixed.

Bomb Scare At Westfall Proves False

Classes continued at Westfall High School this morning despite a bomb threat phoned to the school's superintendent Donald Shearer about 7 a.m.

Scheerer told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies that a man, speaking in muffled tones, told him a bomb was planted in the school.

Deputy Warren Straley, dispatched immediately to the school, could find nothing after an intensive search.

He said classes were conducted as usual. Students were taken to home rooms, which had all been thoroughly searched prior to the student's admission.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who reported a similar threat to the Scioto School last week, believes the threats to be only malicious in nature.

But he has not discounted the fact that they could be real and has initiated an extensive investigation.

Portsmouth Notes 4th Road Death

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Portsmouth registered its fourth traffic fatality of the new year early today with the death of Anthony Wayne Madden, 20, of Garrison, Ky.

Madden died in the collision of his car with a truck carrying 1,710 cases of empty vodka bottles at a Portsmouth intersection.

The truck driver, Eddie Lee Longfellow, 31, of Hunt, W. Va., was charged with violating a traffic signal.

Woman's Body In Freezer; Believed Slain Last Aug. 4

TORONTO (AP) — Police say the woman whose body was found in a home freezer apparently had been shot in the head last Aug. 4, her birthday.

The woman's husband, David Wilfred Todd, 38, a truck driver, was ordered held without bail Tuesday pending further proceedings.

Todd has been charged with noncapital murder, an offense which does not carry the death penalty.

Mrs. Todd's body was found Monday night by curious youths under trays of food in the freezer. She had not been heard from since late July although she was not officially reported missing until her mother, a resident of Burlington, Ont., went to police in December.

The discovery of her body came after Charles Cassidy, 21, his sister Catherine, 15, and their friends John Moore, 19, and Layne Jackson, 18, watched a television suspense program at the Cassidy home Monday night.

The program, in which a woman's body was found in a trunk, renewed their interest in a freezer brought to the Cassidy home when Todd moved in with the family in December.

Todd lived alone in a nearby apartment after his wife, Grace Evelyn, 34, disappeared but was invited to move in with the Cassidys when he was unable to renew his lease Dec. 1.

The young people said they had become increasingly curious about the freezer which was sealed with tape and which they had been ordered not to open.

John said the four opened it with the help of knives, bobby pins and a screwdriver.

The sunken body of Mrs. Todd, clad in shorts and halter, was in the bottom of the freezer.

Man Is Indicted In Yule Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Tyrone Howard, 21, was indicted by the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury today on a charge of second-degree murder for the slaying of John Fitzpatrick, a 37-year-old father of four.

Fitzpatrick was stabbed to death while standing in line with his children to see Santa Claus in a downtown department store the night of Dec. 21.

Howard, who also had taken his children to see Santa, became engaged in an argument with Fitzpatrick over their place in line and a fight ensued, police said.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University officials said today room and board charges will not be raised for the 1972-73 school year, but that a $30 per year tuition increase appears probable.

Selective Service Alters Program To Aid Appeals

Selective Service, preparing to implement new law throughout the country, has notified the local board of several changes in current selective service programs.

Now effective is the new time limit for young citizens to enroll for the draft. In the past, a boy had to go to the selective service office within five working days of his 18th birthday to escape penalty. Now, an enrollee has 30 days prior to his 18th birthday and 30 days following in which he may register with the board.

A registrant is permitted personal appearances for appeals of classification with the local board and allowed three witnesses to appear with him. Rather than the strict 30 day limit which has been enforced in the past for filing an appeal, the young man may make his appeal within 15 days — or longer if the board is satisfied that the registrant's failure to make the deadline is due to circumstances beyond his control.

Appeal is now permitted, with personal appearance, before the district appeal board and the Presidential Appeal Board in Washington D. C. with written request.

In the past, the registrant had no right to request personal appearance with the board prior to the board's decision on conscientious or hardship claims.

The registrant who fails to appear before the local or appeal board will be granted five days in which to submit a legitimate reason for his failure to appear. This time may also be extended if the board feels his reason is due to causes beyond his control.

Under the new rules, reasons for classification of a young man will be included when the notice of classification is sent by the board.

When ordered for induction, instead of seeking a deferment or exemption, a young man may now apply for a postponement of induction from the state or national director, rather than consideration of a change of classification.

No longer is it necessary for a registrant to seek the permission of the local board to leave the United States. This rule has been abolished.

Starting now, anyone 26 and over with extended liability will be placed in the category I-H, an administrative holding class, rather than remain in the classification I-A as in the past.

For answers to questions about individual cases, contact the local draft board.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.06 at 916.1.

Bomb Scare At Westfall Proves False

Classes continued at Westfall High School this morning despite a bomb threat phoned to the school's superintendent Donald Shearer about 7 a.m.

Scheerer told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies that a man, speaking in muffled tones, told him a bomb was planted in the school.

Deputy Warren Straley, dispatched immediately to the school, could find nothing after an intensive search.

He said classes were conducted as usual. Students were taken to home rooms, which had all been thoroughly searched prior to the student's admission.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who reported a similar threat to the Scioto School last week, believes the threats to be only malicious in nature.

But he has not discounted the fact that they could be real and has initiated an extensive investigation.

Portsmouth Notes 4th Road Death

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Portsmouth registered its fourth traffic fatality of the new year early today with the death of Anthony Wayne Madden, 20, of Garrison, Ky.

Madden died in the collision of his car with a truck carrying 1,710 cases of empty vodka bottles at a Portsmouth intersection.

The truck driver, Eddie Lee Lonzfellow, 31, of Hunt, W. Va., was charged with violating a traffic signal.

Circleville Patrolmen Doyle Smales and Jerry Keller have completed a two-day Breathalyzer Operator's School conducted by the Ohio Department of Health at Ohio State University.

Woman's Body In Freezer; Believed Slain Last Aug. 4

TORONTO (AP) — Police say the woman whose body was found in a home freezer apparently had been shot in the head last Aug. 4, her birthday.

The woman's husband, David Wilfred Todd, 38, a truck driver, was ordered held without bail Tuesday pending further proceedings.

Todd has been charged with noncapital murder, an offense which does not carry the death penalty.

Mrs. Todd's body was found Monday night by curious youths under trays of food in the freezer. She had not been heard from since late July although she was not officially reported missing until her mother, a resident of Burlington, Ont., went to police in December.

The discovery of her body came after Charles Cassidy, 21, his sister Catherine, 15, and their friends John Moore, 19, and Layne Jackson, 18, watched a television suspense program at the Cassidy home Monday night.

The program, in which a woman's body was found in a trunk, renewed their interest in a freezer brought to the Cassidy home when Todd moved in with the family in December.

Todd lived alone in a nearby apartment after his wife, Grace Evelyn, 34, disappeared but was invited to move in with the Cassidys when he was unable to renew his lease Dec. 1.

The young people said they had become increasingly curious about the freezer which was sealed with tape and which they had been ordered not to open.

John said the four opened it with the help of knives, bobby pins and a screwdriver.

The untanned body of Mrs. Todd, clad in shorts and halter, was in the bottom of the freezer.

Man Is Indicted In Yule Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Tyrone Howard, 21, was indicted by the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury today on a charge of second-degree murder for the slaying of John Fitzpatrick, a 37-year-old father of four.

Fitzpatrick was stabbed to death while standing in line with his children to see Santa Claus in a downtown department store the night of Dec. 21.

Howard, who also had taken his children to see Santa, became engaged in an argument with Fitzpatrick over their place in line and a fight ensued, police said.

Ohio University Keeps Same Rates

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University officials said today room and board charges will not be raised for the 1972-73 school year, but that a $30 per year tuition increase appears probable.

They said the anticipated $30 tuition boost will be lower than the 1971-72 increases which totaled $180 for Ohio undergraduates living in university dormitories. The $180 included a $90 tuition increase and a $90 raise in room and board rates.

Confession Standards Are Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held in a 4 to 3 decision today that courts need not determine "beyond a reasonable doubt" that the confession of a criminal defendant was voluntary before admission into evidence.

"Courts need only to determine," the majority said, that a confession was voluntary "by a preponderance of the evidence."

The decision came in an appeal by Don Richard Lego which sought to overturn his 1961 Illinois armed robbery conviction.

Lego maintained that the trial judge should have determined whether his confession was voluntary beyond reasonable doubt before admitting it into evidence.

Lego said he was questioned by police for four hours and beaten with a gun butt. The statement also contained the sentence, Lego said, "No, I refuse to sign this statement. I want to see a doctor and an attorney."

The trial judge determined that the confession was admissible at a hearing with the jury absent.

San Quentin Condemned

Adding to the growing belief that the decade of the 1970s may bring a major overhaul of the nation's prison systems was the announcement that San Quentin is being phased out. This ancient compound, dating back to 1851, will follow another famous California prison — Alcatraz — into retirement by 1974.

San Quentin's death sentence was pronounced by Gov. Ronald Reagan after the state Board of Corrections recommended both it and Folsom State Prison be closed. A study conducted by the board rated both prisons "not secure or safe" and recommended construction of smaller facilities.

That is a goal being recommended in other states as well. Huge fortresses of stone and steel in which thousands of inmates — many repeat offenders — are held, no longer serve useful purposes. Mere size appears to mitigate against rehabilitation and provides constant threat of large-scale revolt.

Smaller maximum security prisons where the inmates cannot congregate in large numbers and where their individual progress toward assuming useful lives can be more closely watched, are called for from many forums.

This is an evolution in corrections which will not occur overnight.

The cost is huge, but when measured against the cost of the present system — including the six lives lost, including three guards, in an aborted escape attempt at San Quentin last summer — the pull for change comes through all the stronger.

Sliding Oceans

When the equator moves 2,000 miles northward, that is news! Fortunately, what a couple of scientists have found off the Aleutian Islands is not the equator itself, but a piece of the Pacific Ocean's floor which used to be at the equator.

This was one of the more dramatic findings to result from drilling the deepest hole yet in the Pacific's floor. The rock recovered was estimated to be 135 million years old and of the consistency found at the earth's midpoint.

The movement of the earth's ocean floors and continents over millions of years is a generally accepted scientific theory. With the Aleutian Island discovery, something of a game is shaping up to see who can find the piece of the planet which has traveled farthest from home base all on its own.

Litterbugs

Since the start of the new year many localities have revived with renewed determination the effort to reduce the number of highway litterbugs. Warnings are frequently issued by police. However, such warnings have been sounded periodically since the first highways were built. All of the stuff that is scattered along main roads and country lanes is unsightly and much of it is smelly.

Officials who are concerned with halting the litterbugs will begin to achieve results when residents in affected areas begin to cooperate by keeping a watchful eye and by testifying against the neighbor who acts so unneighborly.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a dogcatcher gets tired of hearing: "Arf, arf, arf—here comes Bozo!"

"Don't worry, Prince. He can't touch you as long as I have you on the leash."

"Why is it you generally catch only little stray dogs, Bozo, and let the big ones get away? You're not scared of them, are you?"

"If the dogs in this town ever start a revolution, Bozo, you're the first one who'll wind up in a wire cage."

"As soon as he starts chasing that small dog on the corner, kids, let's open the rear door of his car and let all the others get away."

"Please, Mr. Barker, can't I have that funny roly poly puppy in the corner? Cross my heart, I promise I'll take real good care of him."

"Sic him, Buck! That's him. Sic him!"

"As soon as I grow up, I'll get me a big net and put it over your head."

"They say that if nobody claims a stray dog at the pound you put him in a place where there's poison gas. You wouldn't do a thing like that, would you Mr. Barker? Tell me it's just a joke."

"Pop, can't you get some other job? All the kids tease me, and some won't even play with me because you're the dogcatcher."

"That little skinny poodle you just caught looks awful sick, Mr. Bozo. If we all give you a nickel apiece, will you let us have him? Maybe we can make him well."

"Why are you so mad at dogs, Mr. Barker? Did one of them bite you when you were a little boy—and now you're just trying to get even?"

"They say that at home your wife keeps you in the doghouse, Bozo. How about that?"

"Wonder what Bozo might have become if he hadn't dropped out of Harvard after his first semester."

"Weren't you ever a little boy with a dog all your own, Mr. Barker?"

"Sometimes Mr. Bozo seems real nice, Daddy. He'll stop his car on a rainy day and offer a kid a ride to school, but none of the kids want to ride with him. Then he drives off looking real sad."

Laff-A-Day

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

THURSDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusual day for social, romantic, business, financial, or traveling matters. Think out a plan of action that can bring you pretty much what you want in the days ahead. Your judgment should be clear and you can get the goodwill and cooperation you desire.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to plan some trip or to make changes not possible before. People with background different from yours can give you data you need. Go after it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have an almost uncanny way of getting others to go ahead with some good plan you have in mind. Consider how to gain backing. Make it worthwhile for the other individual, too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to own allies for the data you need just at this time and get right information. Ask them straight out instead of hedging. Then carry through with their suggestions and add to success.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have much work to do that will be profitable, so get an early start instead of procrastinating. Plan some time for health improvement, also. Don't delay on any dentistry you need done.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day for social and recreational activities that really appeal to you. Buy some nice gift for your mate which will make both of you happier.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

As I grow older I find that my need for sleep becomes less. There was a time when I slept as much as 10 hours. Now, at the age of 68, I feel completely rested with as little as four or five hours sleep.

Is this unusual?

Mr. H. U., Florida

A vast amount of information is now coming to light about sleep, its duration, and its effect on normal health.

We now know that it is possible to slowly retrain oneself, and consciously cut down on the need for sleep without endangering health.

Sleep patterns vary with age, with freedom from emotional tensions, and with the state of good health.

Sleeping patterns do not fit into any general rule. If one pattern works for you, and you are comfortable and able to function, there is no reason you should force the issue and try to change it.

Far too many people have a preconceived idea of how much sleep they should have, and worry themselves sick during the night if they fail to have the "correct" number of hours. The body is a remarkably wise machine that knows how to adjust itself for its sleep requirements.

Insomniacs are made when worrying about the proper amount of sleep keeps them in a state of tension, and prevents the rest that would be conducive to sleep.

Can you explain what "toricollis" means? Is it a serious condition? Is it curable?

Mrs. J. M. Van W., Calif.

Dear Mrs. Van W.:

"Toricollis" is the technical name for a wry (or stiff) neck. It is caused by a spasm or an injury or a birth defect in one of the large muscles that runs from the mastoid bone to the collar bone.

A birth injury, or some deformity or defective development, may make this condition very apparent early in life. It is now possible to shorten or lengthen these muscles by surgery.

Occasionally, the muscle may go into spasm and make it impossible to rotate the head. Pain and tenderness on pressure are the most common symptoms. With drugs and various types of physiotherapy, heat, and ultrasonic vibrations, the spasm can be relieved.

I have known patients who had repeated attacks of toricollis because of their habit of cradling the telephone in their shoulder in order to free their hands for writing.

A draft from an open window while driving may account for the fact that wry-neck occurs more frequently on the left side than on the right side of drivers.

Direct exposure to a fan or to air-conditioning blasts may also cause wry-neck in unusually sensitive people.

Whys Of Pakistani Policy

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The naive of our "exposure" artists is a never-ceasing wonder. Just at present there is a terrible flap over the "disclosure" that President

Richard Nixon and his adviser, Henry Kissinger, actually favored Pakistan over India in the struggle over Bangladesh. My own sympathies, as I have said in a previous column, were with Bangladesh; the West Pakistan militarists behaved with abominable brutality toward a people whose only sin was to have voted in a sanctioned election. It was perfectly obvious to me, however, that Nixon's displeasure with the Indian attack on Pakistan had an entirely rational and legitimate origin in the larger concerns the Administration has been trying to push.

The trouble with the "exposure" of the documents that quote Henry Kissinger as saying that Nixon was "not trying to be even-handed" about Pakistan and India is that it rips a few conversations out of the larger context of the Administration's new Asian policy, which is to keep the Soviets from surrounding Red China from three sides. It should be clear that Nixon couldn't care less about Pakistan as Pakistan, a dour and repressive little country that couldn't see its own interest in giving relative autonomy to its distant and disaffected Bengali province. But when Nixon decided to "go to Peking" he committed himself to saying "b" after saying "a". The pro-Pakistani statements of Henry Kissinger must be interpreted as being a partial payment for the use of a West Pakistan airport as the takeoff point for the first journey to Peking.

Nixon, it must be understood, is not going to Peking in February for a purely exploratory session with Chou En-lai. The quid pro quo to be announced from Red China soil in February will surely put our "favoritism" for Pakistan in clear perspective. Nixon has certainly promised Chou En-lai support against Soviet encirclement in exchange for a deal on Indochina. The Red Chinese have tolerated our recent bombing reply to the North Vietnamese dry-season escalation in Laos and Cambodia. Chou En-lai and Mao Tse-tung aren't exactly deserting Hanoi, but Peking will use its potential veto over the North Vietnamese food supply to enforce a compromise in Indochina that will keep Soviet Russia from gaining total control of southern Asia.

This will enable Nixon to complete the U.S. pullout of ground forces from South Vietnam well before the November election.

The Red Chinese are scared to death of the Soviet buildup in Siberia. It wasn't so long ago that Soviet publications, as revealed by Radio Liberty's indefatigable corps of translators, were talking about "collective security" for Asia. To Commissar Brezhnev, "collective security" must always come in a form that furthers Soviet foreign policy objectives. To the end of establishing a pro-Soviet "peace" in Asia, the Kremlin is offering a return of former Japanese islands in the Kurile chain in return for Japanese friendship. Now that the U.S. is about to begin a long-term retreat from the East Asian mainland, Japan must find its own way of keeping the southern part of the Korean peninsula out of totalitarian hands.

Soviet Russia is the only nation that can keep North Korea on a leash for the long pull when we do decide to remove troops from South Korea. Obviously there won't be a complete pullout from South Korea right away. The deal with Peking on Southeast Asia will be paid for in terms of material help that will enable the Maoists to face those Russian legions along the Chinese inner Asian frontier. As for Taiwan, it will be agreed at Peking to let the question of U.S. protection — the Seventh Fleet in Formosa Strait and all that — remain quiescent for the moment.

In view of the larger pattern that will unfold after Nixon's Peking visit, it is silly to worry about a "pro-Pakistani" policy that didn't move a single U.S. soldier out of the Western Hemisphere. Nixon couldn't have been vocally "pro-Indian" in the Bangladesh troubles without endangering his whole Peking venture.

Whether the Nixon-Kissinger turn to Peking is premature is quite another story. I happen to think it is premature: if Nixon had been tougher, and if he had been more willing to work in concert with Japan, he might have obtained a better deal on Indochina and on Taiwan in the UN. But the die has been cast with November of 1972 in mind. An exposure of the genesis of the whole Chinese policy would be worth something to historians. As for the Pakistani "favoritism" exposure, however, it's either ho-hum or phooey. It didn't tell anybody about the obvious.

Crushing Traffic A Serious Problem

By EMILIO MOYA

MADRID (AP) — Juan Martinez is a Madrid car mechanic. He is late to work an average of four days a month and neither his employers nor he can do anything to prevent it.

Juan is one among hundreds of thousands affected by a fast-changing Madrid where crushing traffic has become the most serious problem the city fathers ever faced.

He got himself a small car several years ago. At first it worked out fine. Juan was always on schedule at work and on weekends he took his family out to the country and drove back home quickly.

Since then the number of cars in the capital has increased by 150 per cent to an estimated 800,000. In rush hours distances that the subway makes in 10 minutes call for half an hour driving at best. A 50-mile drive from Madrid on Sundays takes 2½ hours.

In Madrid there is a car for every four families. It is expected there will be one for every two families in 1980.

The subway is still the cheapest and fastest transportation within the city. It has about 1½ million travelers a day. But authorities say if those using their own transportation — cars, motorcycles and bikes — dropped them, the subway would become a nightmare. The bus system is far from meeting needs and an estimated 1,500 additional buses will be necessary to solve the mounting problem. City hall cannot afford the high expenses.

As a result the streets of the 3.3-million inhabitant capital are a huge parking lot and traffic violations run into the thousands every day.

Things now appear to be on the way toward a drastic change. The government has just passed a series of measures mainly aimed at discouraging people from using their private cars in town.

Parking or traffic violations are liable to fines of $3.50 to $14. Second notice will bear a 20 per cent increase which will grow to a 50 per cent if a third notice is necessary.

If no payment is made, violators will lose their license for periods ranging from one week to three months.

In 1939, Madrid had an estimated 30,000 vehicles. The figure moved upward slowly during the next 12 years. The real boost came in the middle of the '60s. From 400,000 cars in 1965, the number jumped to half a million the next year and 750,000 in 1969. There are 970,000 vehicles officially registered in the Spanish capital.

JANUARY 1942
30 YEARS AGO

Circleville industry and business entered the year with an air of uncertainty prevailing, the war caused several industrialists to express conservatism about prospects for the year.

The government set a quota of 16 new tires for passenger cars to be distributed throughout Pickaway County for the month of January.

Edward G. Robinson, Edward Arnold and Laraine Day were starring in "Unholy Partners" at the Cliftona Theatre along with a "Pete Smith Special".

Mayor-elect Ben Gordon and city council had $3,000 in their general fund to operate the city departments until the first of April.

Circleville Pumpkin Show Society met to discuss the possibility of holding a show this year. Routes 22 and 23 had become federal highways which might prevent the use of the streets.

Mrs. Ted Lewis was visiting in Circleville and presented the Pickaway County Red Cross Unit with a check for $100 as her contribution to the current campaign.

The first snowfall of the year hit Roundtown with an accumulation of over four inches with temperatures dropping to 12 below zero.

Rothman's was advertising the seasons smartest womens coats for $14.95.

Circleville firemen fought a blaze in sub-zero temperatures at the residence of Dr. P. C. Routzahn on N. Court St. The two-hour battle left the firefighters covered with an icy glaze.

Two Circleville lads, Dwight Radcliff and Campbell McMordie, found a check for $361 while on their way to school. The honest youngsters promptly turned the check over to their teacher.

Pickaway County farmers were faced with an implement shortage that was becoming so serious it appeared that rationing would enter the farm picture.

Parallel parking on Court St. was put into effect by the city in an effort to relieve the traffic congestion in the area.

Man Prefers Jail

ROUYN, Que. (AP) — Charles Denomme appeared before a judge on a charge of being drunk in a public place, pleaded guilty and was fined $40 or 15 days in jail. Denomme came back two days later and accepted the jail sentence, saying to the judge that it was comfortable in jail.

State Demos Take Sides In Primary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's top Democrats continued Tuesday to choose up sides in the upcoming state presidential primary as two major contenders in the primary race announced plans for appearances in Columbus.

State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey said she will seek election as an at-large delegate pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine. Mrs. Donahey joins Gov. John Gilligan and state United Auto Workers Union leaders on the Muskie slate.

State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said Tuesday he would run as an at-large delegate on the slate of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.

Ferguson joins Ohio AFL-CIO president Frank King on the Humphrey bandwagon. Both men have expressed dissatisfaction with Gilligan's decision not to run as a favorite son candidate in the primary. They say it will split state Democrats.

In the midst of a geographic area that specializes in lamb, chicken, fish, eggplant — to mention a few delicacies, Israel reflects that culinary heritage.

In the past 20 years, however, there have been changes. More than two million immigrants plus tens of thousands of tourists, principally from the United States and Western Europe, have brought new tastes and dishes.

One major change is evident, in the extensive use of vegetables. Since the war of independence, the Israelis apparently discovered tomatoes and cucumbers, and judging by

Taxpayer Committee Yields To Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Taxpayers Action Committee has announced it no longer plans to circulate petitions calling for an amendment to the state constitution requiring voter approval of any state income tax.

Committee Chairman Lew Basom said the action was called off because Republican legislators had decided to go ahead with their own petition signing campaign for a similar amendment.

"We cannot now lend our support, as such, to a partisan-sponsored movement," Basom said in a letter to committee supporters. "We recommend that as a taxpayer citizen you contact your Republican representative and assist in playing this issue on the ballot."

poi found anywhere. Pitah is oriental bread and reflects, in taste, the home-made starch father made to keep wallpaper firmly glued to any type wall.

Pitah has many uses; as a sponge, for example, to mop up gravies, particularly the Israeli - heavily - laden - caloric variety.

When used with falafel it becomes an Israeli-MacDonald hamburger bun with one opening.

Falafel? According to Tel Aviv's Moshe (no last name), proprietor of a most popular outdoor stand, falafel are "small balls of ground chick peas cooked in hot oil and served in pitah. Falafel is served topped with salad, sauerkraut, hot sauce and technia," a chick pea sauce.

One can find the pitah-falafel delicacy throughout Israel with the individual operator demonstrating his independence by adding an ingredient or two of his own to the concoction.

A suggestion for the uninitiated to pitah-falafel: be sure to keep a stiff wrist and make sure the combination is rightside up, with the opening facing the mouth at all times, or else prepare for a major laundry bill.

Then, of course, there's babel.

Originally it was the "beugel," a Viennese tidbit. Legend has it, however, that in 1683 when the Polish King John Sovesky helped save Vienna from the Turks, a baker, thankful for the delivery, baked the beugel in the fashion of a stirrup commemorating the thousands of citizens who grasped at the horses to touch the savors.

Somehow, over the years, the shape changed to include the hole. When Jews fled the disorders in Central Europe for the United States and other areas, including the Mideast, they brought "beugel - bagel" with them. In time the role with the hold became bagel, without which no Israeli breakfast would be complete.

On a serious note, though, Israel, which once had to import the bulk of its foodstuffs, is today one of six nations in the world raising enough food to feed itself. It is also a major exporter of citrus fruits with this year's crop expected to reach almost 50 million cases of fresh fruit, principally oranges and grapefruit. Furthermore, internal consumption of fresh fruit is at a record figure with an estimated 72,000 tons being purchased inside Israel.

Should you be in the land of the Bible at the time of high holidays this September, and fortunate to have a hotel room in Jerusalem, you might be the recipient of a food tradition provided by Mayor Teddy Kollek — a plate of Israeli apples and honey to join Israelis in the traditional welcoming of the New Year, 5732.

Muskie will address a statewide caucus Monday night at the Pick Fort Hayes Hotel to select candidates for the 38 delegate seats pledged to his candidacy.

The following night Humphrey will address a similar caucus at the Neil House.

today's use of both vegetables, the Israelis are making up for lost time. In virtually every meal tomatoes and cukes are served; and breakfast, especially for the tourist, would be incomplete without both vegetables prepared in a myriad of ways.

Then there's pitah; the closest approach to solidified Hawaiian poi found anywhere. Pitah is oriental bread and reflects, in taste, the home-made starch father made to keep wallpaper firmly glued to any type wall.

Pitah has many uses; as a sponge, for example, to mop up gravies, particularly the Israeli - heavily - laden - caloric variety.

When used with falafel it becomes an Israeli-MacDonald hamburger bun with one opening.

Falafel? According to Tel Aviv's Moshe (no last name), proprietor of a most popular outdoor stand, falafel are "small balls of ground chick peas cooked in hot oil and served in pitah. Falafel is served topped with salad, sauerkraut, hot sauce and tehina," a chick pea sauce.

One can find the pitah-falafel delicacy throughout Israel with the individual operator demonstrating his independence by adding an ingredient or two of his own to the concoction.

A suggestion for the uninitiated to pitah-falafel: be sure to keep a stiff wrist and make sure the combination is rightside up, with the opening facing the mouth at all times, or else prepare for a major laundry bill.

Then, of course, there's babel.

Originally it was the "beugel," a Viennese tidbit. Legend has it, however, that in 1683 when the Polish King John Sovesky helped save Vienna from the Turks, a baker, thankful for the delivery, baked the beugel in the fashion of a stirrup commemorating the thousands of citizens who grasped at the horses to touch the saviors.

Somehow, over the years, the shape changed to include the hole. When Jews fled the disorders in Central Europe for the United States and other areas, including the Mideast, they brought "beugel - bagel" with them. In time the role with the hold became bagel, without which no Israeli breakfast would be complete.

On a serious note, though, Israel, which once had to import the bulk of its foodstuffs, is today one of six nations in the world raising enough food to feed itself. It is also a major exporter of citrus fruits with this year's crop expected to reach almost 50 million cases of fresh fruit, principally oranges and grapefruit. Furthermore, internal consumption of fresh fruit is at a record figure with an estimated 72,000 tons being purchased inside Israel.

Should you be in the land of the Bible at the time of high holidays this September, and fortunate to have a hotel room in Jerusalem, you might be the recipient of a food tradition provided by Mayor Teddy Kollek — a plate of Israeli apples and honey to join Israelis in the traditional welcoming of the New Year, 5732.

Student Preps For Career; Studies Textiles, Weaving

YOUTHFUL WEAVER — Jerry Daub is attending school on Nantucket Island and is apprenticing at the Nantucket looms there. He is shown here winding yarn.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A college education isn't for everyone, points out Jerry Daub, a 15-year-old high school junior who is a good student, from Tilford, Pa., and who is learning the textile business from the sheep up this year on Nantucket Island.

"For some people college is a hang-up. When they graduate all they have is a piece of paper. Many things may have been learned that will be little value if a student chooses a career that requires him to start from scratch," he explains.

Jerry says one can get a head start by studying a special interest early.

He says he has wanted to be in the textile business since he was 7 and attended a craft fair where he saw a college boy spinning at a wheel.

Two summers ago he pursued that interest and took a course in vegetable dyeing on Nantucket. Last summer he studied fleece dyeing. He persuaded his parents to let him stay on the island and attend school so he could apprentice at the Nantucket looms directed by Andy Oates, a skilled weaver and graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design.

"I want to learn everything about textiles so I can have my own business some day," Jerry explains. "Next year I would like to travel to Europe following up the history of spinning and to visit Ireland where the fleece of sheep is particularly beautiful."

The youth has learned to handle chenilles, rug yarns and mohair on the looms. "When I start my own textile business I hope to incorporate spinning and dyeing," he says. "Maybe even restoration work. And another good thing about my apprenticeship is that I will have the looms to back me, if I need help."

It isn't easy though to get small quantities of yarn for experimentation. In the United States the minimum order mills will take is about 200 pounds. His most recent purchase was woven into material for a multicolored Nehru jacket. He used linen as a warp and cotton as a weft. He calls it Jacob's coat because of its many colors. Jerry usually used three colors to give it a holy symbol.

"In the early centuries when people had little else but religion to believe in, it became traditional to use religious symbols in weaving," he explains. "Many people carry on that tradition."

Jerry is particularly grateful that his father and mother have encouraged him all the way in his plans.

"I am not really old enough to make long range plans. I expect to do some studying, but I don't know where. I will turn the corners when I come to them. Meanwhile I'm looking forward to each new step toward my ultimate goal," he explains.

AMTRAK Employees Now Attired In Stylish Uniforms

BGSU May Shorten Degree Time

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Three year bachelor's degrees instead of four will be among measures universities will have to consider to survive the financial pinch of the 70s, Bowling Green State University President Hollis Moore said Tuesday.

Moore told an unusual all-campus faculty-staff meeting that he would appoint a committee to study the feasibility of shortening the bachelor's degree requirement, noting the action would save money for both the schools and the students.

He added that colleges in the past "have been guilty of artificially inflating the amount of time and exaggerating the last importance of some required studies." Moore also said high school graduates come to college better prepared than ever.

Moore called Tuesday's meeting to discuss the university's new operating budget, which he said would be adequate, although it "did not have everything we wanted."

"More important than the details of this year's budget," he said, "is the strategy of Bowling Green's plans for the next decade. Our response to the new realities will be to become more of a university, not less."

Moore warned that the cutbacks in new funds available to most colleges and universities now as compared with conditions in the last decade "are not temporary."

Student Preps For Career; Studies Textiles, Weaving

YOUTHFUL WEAVER — Jerry Daub is attending school on Nantucket Island and is apprenticing at the Nantucket looms there. He is shown here winding yarn.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A college education isn't for everyone, points out Jerry Daub, a 15-year-old high school junior who is a good student, from Tilford, Pa., and who is learning the textile business from the sheep up this year on Nantucket Island.

"For some people college is a hang-up. When they graduate

all they have is a piece of paper. Many things may have been learned that will be little value if a student chooses a career that requires him to start from scratch," he explains.

Jerry says one can get a head start by studying a special interest early.

He says he has wanted to be in the textile business since he was 7 and attended a craft fair where he saw a college boy spinning at a wheel.

Two summers ago he pursued that interest and took a course in vegetable dyeing on Nantucket. Last summer he studied fleece dyeing. He persuaded his parents to let him stay on the island and attend school so he could apprentice at the Nantucket looms directed by Andy Oates, a skilled weaver and graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design.

"I want to learn everything about textiles so I can have my own business some day," Jerry explains. "Next year I would like to travel to Europe following up the history of spinning and to visit Ireland where the fleece of sheep is particularly beautiful."

The youth has learned to handle chenilles, rug yarns and mohair on the looms. "When I start my own textile business I hope to incorporate spinning and dyeing," he says. "Maybe even restoration work. And another good thing about my apprenticeship is that I will have the looms to back me, if I need help."

It isn't easy though to get small quantities of yarn for experimentation. In the United States the minimum order mills will take is about 200 pounds. His most recent purchase was woven into material for a multicolored Nehru jacket. He used linen as a warp and cotton as a weft. He calls it Jacob's coat because of its many colors. Jerry usually used three colors to give it a holy symbol.

"In the early centuries when people had little else but religion to believe in, it became traditional to use religious symbols in weaving," he explains. "Many people carry on that tradition."

Jerry is particularly grateful that his father and mother have encouraged him all the way in his plans.

"I am not really old enough to make long range plans. I expect to do some studying, but I don't know where. I will turn the corners when I come to them. Meanwhile I'm looking forward to each new step toward my ultimate goal," he explains.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Need Won't Make Marriage Succeed

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering your statement, "All that is necessary for a marriage to succeed is that the two people really need each other." I guess I don't know what you mean by "succeed."

My wife and I need each other. She is my cook, housekeeper, and laundress. She raises the children and makes most of the decisions in the family.

I provide her with a good income and am available for heavy jobs around the house, errands, and occasional child caring.

We have no sex life, and haven't for the last 4 years of our 13-year marriage. That is her one decision I protested, but without result. Our anniversaries come and go without comment. Divorce and remarriage is out of the question because we took the vow to stay together "til death do us part." Furthermore, one look at our widowed acquaintance shows us life alone is hardly preferable.

So we plod along, yoked together in this polite, sterile, wretched alliance you call a "success."

I would amend your statement to say "All that is necessary for a marriage to endure is that two people really need each other."

ENDURING

DEAR ENDURING: Your "amendment" is approved and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fairly new in town and we recently had some of our friends over for a dinner party. I served a dessert that made a big hit with all the guests. One lady asked for the recipe.

West Virginia Signs Tax Reciprocity Pact

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia Tax Commissioner Charles Haden has approved and sent to Robert J. Kosydar, Ohio tax commissioner, a reciprocal income tax agreement.

The new agreement relieves West Virginia residents, working in Ohio, from liability for the new Ohio income tax and the requirement to file a tax return there. It similarly relieves Ohio residents, working in West Virginia, from paying the Mountain State income tax.

Brandt Has Party For Wife's Birthday

LONG BOAT KEY, Fla. (AP) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has thrown a champagne dinner party to celebrate his wife Ruth's birthday. An aide said it would be "indicate" to reveal the age of Mrs. Brandt, an attractive woman in her mid 40s.

Views On TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Wagner, wearing his producer's hat and carrying his salesman's case, is bustling around Manhattan this week—selling Bette Davis. Wagner, a film and TV star, now has produced a 90-minute film feature which he hopes will serve as a pilot for an intriguing series starring the veteran actress.

"I ran across the property—an eight page treatment—and I immediately thought it would be perfect for Bette," Wagner explained, one hand caressing a box holding a reel of his treasure. "It took a year and a half to develop but we made it, in London and Scotland. And Bette likes it, too."

The product will be seen Saturday night on ABC's "Movie of the Week." Bette, in black wig, plays the title role, "Madame Sin," a mysterious Eurasian femme fatale.

"I think the hook in the series will be to see if she can be outsmarted," the producer said, forgetting in his enthusiasm that he also plays a role in the feature.

Bob's most recent TV involvement was as a master burglar in "It Takes a Thief," which ran for 2½ seasons. But currently he is more interested in producing and directing than in acting.

NBC's contribution to Tuesday evening was a "White Paper" documentary showing the cruel living conditions in conflict-torn Belfast, emphasizing the effect the Catholic-Protestant troubles are having on children.

The documentary was shot by a team in Northern Ireland for a month. It was well photographed and its script effectively stressed the psychic damage to people caught in civil war.

While the Irish showed none of the physical disease, hunger and suffering seen among war refugees of Bangladesh, the impact of the hour was a closeup of the senseless destruction of war.

Meanwhile, ABC's "Movie of the Week" may have achieved some high point in nonsense. Called "The Night Stalker," it was a horror story, played deadpan, about a 70-year-old vampire loose in Las Vegas, killing women and stealing from the local hospital blood bank to quench his thirst. Darren McGavin, as one of those brash reporters who went out of style with "The Front Page," solved everything by driving a stake through the creature's heart.

Let us hope, it was not a pilot for a series, and let us think more kindly about that old black-and-white movie of "Dracula"—at least the blood was not in living red.

Wage-Price Publicity Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council says it will start disclosing the names of violators of wage-price controls, and a congressman has hinted his committee may investigate current policy unless additional action is taken to protect consumers.

Council Director Donald Rumsfeld said Monday the new disclosure policy includes the possibility that results of council investigations may be given to persons who file complaints against excessive price and wage increases.

Names of violators have been automatically withheld unless the government went to court to force compliance with wage-price guidelines. The government also continually has said consumers are not entitled to see business records that contain justification for price hikes. The council did not say whether companies will be required to disclose that information according to the new policy.

Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, meanwhile asked the Price Commission and Pay Board to detail how they have complied with congressional mandates in the new laws. The Texas Democrat said he is particularly interested in those pertaining to the handling of

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Need Won't Make Marriage Succeed

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering your statement, "All that is necessary for a marriage to succeed is that the two people really need each other." I guess I don't know what you mean by "succeed."

My wife and I need each other. She is my cook, housekeeper, and laundress. She raises the children and makes most of the decisions in the family.

I provide her with a good income and am available for heavy jobs around the house, errands, and occasional child caring.

We have no sex life, and haven't for the last 4 years of our 13-year marriage. That is her one decision I protested, but without result. Our anniversaries come and go without comment. Divorce and remarriage is out of the question because we took the vow to stay together "til death do us part." Furthermore, one look at our widowed acquaintance shows us life alone is hardly preferable.

So we plod along, yoked together in this polite, sterile, wretched alliance you call a "success."

I would amend your statement to say "All that is necessary for a marriage to endure is that two people really need each other."

ENDURING
DEAR ENDURING: Your "amendment" is approved and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fairly new in town and we recently had some of our friends over for a dinner party. I served a dessert that made a big hit with all the guests. One lady asked for the recipe.

West Virginia Signs Tax Reciprocity Pact

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia Tax Commissioner Charles Haden has approved and sent to Robert J. Kosydar, Ohio tax commissioner, a reciprocal income tax agreement.

The new agreement relieves West Virginia residents, working in Ohio, from liability for the new Ohio income tax and the requirement to file a tax return there. It similarly relieves Ohio residents, working in West Virginia, from paying the Mountain State income tax.

Brandt Has Party For Wife's Birthday

LONG BOAT KEY, Fla. (AP) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has thrown a champagne dinner party to celebrate his wife Ruth's birthday. An aide said it would be "indiscreet" to reveal the age of Mrs. Brandt, an attractive woman in her mid 40s.

Views On TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Wagner, wearing his producer's hat and carrying his salesman's case, is bustling around Manhattan this week—selling Bette Davis. Wagner, a film and TV star, now has produced a 90-minute film feature which he hopes will serve as a pilot for an intrigue series starring the veteran actress.

"I ran across the property—an eight page treatment—and I immediately thought it would be perfect for Bette," Wagner explained, one hand caressing a box holding a reel of his treasure. "It took a year and a half to develop but we made it, in London and Scotland. And Bette likes it, too."

The product will be seen Saturday night on ABC's "Movie of the Week." Bette, in black wig, plays the title role, "Madame Sin," a mysterious Eurasian femme fatale.

"I think the hook in the series will be to see if she can be outsmarted," the producer said, forgetting in his enthusiasm that he also plays a role in the feature.

Bob's most recent TV involvement was as a master burglar in "It Takes a Thief," which ran for 2½ seasons. But currently he is more interested in producing and directing than in acting.

NBC's contribution to Tuesday evening was a "White Paper" documentary showing the cruel living conditions in conflict-torn Belfast, emphasizing the effect the Catholic-Protestant troubles are having on children.

The documentary was shot by a team in Northern Ireland for a month. It was well photographed and its script effectively stressed the psychic damage to people caught in civil war.

While the Irish showed none of the physical disease, hunger and suffering seen among war refugees of Bangladesh, the impact of the hour was a closeup of the senseless destruction of war.

Meanwhile, ABC's "Movie of the Week" may have achieved some high point in nonsense. Called "The Night Stalker," it was a horror story, played deadpan, about a 70-year-old vampire loose in Las Vegas, killing women and stealing from the local hospital blood bank to quench his thirst. Darren McGavin, as one of those brash reporters who went out of style with "The Front Page," solved everything by driving a stake through the creature's heart.

Let us hope, it was not a pilot for a series, and let us think more kindly about that old black-and-white movie of "Dracula"—at least the blood was not in living red.

Wage-Price Publicity Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council says it will start disclosing the names of violators of wage-price controls, and a congressman has hinted his committee may investigate current policy unless additional action is taken to protect consumers.

Council Director Donald Rumsfeld said Monday the new disclosure policy includes the possibility that results of council investigations may be given to persons who file complaints against excessive price and wage increases.

Names of violators have been automatically withheld unless the government went to court to force compliance with wage-price guidelines. The government also continually has said consumers are not entitled to see business records that contain justification for price hikes. The council did not say whether companies will be required to disclose that information according to the new policy.

Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, meanwhile asked the Price Commission and Pay Board to detail how they have complied with congressional mandates in the new laws. The Texas Democrat said he is particularly interested in those pertaining to the handling of TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—By the time Ohio's proposed air quality standards are adopted, the federal government will be ready to change the guidelines on which they're based, a Toledo environmental engineer warned Monday.

Guyer To Run For Congress

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-2 Findlay, plans to run in the Republican primary for the Fourth District congressional seat now held by U.S. Rep. William McCulloch of Piquette, the Dayton Journal Herald reported today.

Guyer, 58, said he would not make an issue of McCulloch's age, 71, or the fact McCulloch suffered during his last term from ill health, the newspaper said.

"I'm going to run a clean campaign based on issues," the paper quoted Guyer as saying. "I've never had the staff to do

Farm Land Declining Rapidly; Blame Taxes

By ANNE MARIE ABBOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio loses an average of 100,000 acres of farmland per year to factories, house and super highways.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that 508,000 acres of pastureland, cropland and woodland were lost from 1965 until 1970. The average size of farms increased but the number of farms in Ohio during the time decreased by 9,000.

Richard C. Betts of the Ohio Department of Agriculture says unless steps are taken to preserve the remaining farmland, the trend "is probably going to continue in the same direction."

Higher taxes and lower profits have forced many Ohio farmers to sell their land.

"Taxes are out of proportion to their income and paying ability," Betts said. "This is why farmers are fighting for property tax relief."

Land with a minimal farm use value is often assessed at a much higher value which is based on its development potential.

"The farmer who's been on his land for 20 years suddenly sees it annexed to the city and residentially zoned," Betts said. The farmer ends up paying higher city taxes while he is still making lower farm profits.

Capital investments in farm buildings, he added, jumped from $43,000 per farm in 1964 to an all-time high of $61,000 by the end of 1969, an average of $100 per acre.

Unless the farmer earns at least this much to invest in his property, "he can't stay in business with a profit," Betts said. "Somewhere along the line there has to be an end point."

Ed Shaudys, Ohio State University agricultural economist, says so long as the state law maintains its current tax index, which he claims "tends to honor social and political" goals, the economic side of the picture will continue to receive less emphasis.

"Agriculture just doesn't have the competitive ability to hold land without legislative control," he said.

To offset the land-loss spiral, Shaudys recommends a preferential tax similar to one in New Jersey.

"The owner files a petition to hold his land in agricultural use and it is taxed on that basis," he explained. "If there is a change in use, a higher tax is paid as a penalty."

Gene R. Abercrombie, state agricultural director, favors a state land-use master plan.

He said, "The plan would set aside certain real good farm areas for agricultural use away from metropolitan areas. And now is the time to start thinking about it."

Another solution, Betts said, is property tax relief. Without it, the farmer will continue to be overtaxed.

Faced with economic survival, farmers are forced to sell to developers who offer premium prices sometimes more than double the farm value of the land.

While industry and houses gobble up acreage, many of the 9,000 farmers who went out of business by 1970 sold their land to more prosperous farm neighbors.

"They are expanding their acreage" or selling out, Betts explained.

"They are forced to because they have so much capital involved they have to expand land-wise in order to produce enough."

Urban Affairs, Development Department Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Legislation paving the way for combining the Departments of Development and Urban Affairs will be introduced into the General Assembly within a couple of weeks.

The two departments will be combined into a new Department of Economic and Community Development, an aide to Gov. John J. Gilligan said. Legislation will be needed to wipe the present Department of Urban Affairs off the books.

"It will be offered in a couple of weeks," said Robert Tenenbaum, Gilligan's press secretary. "Not this week, but when they come back."

12 Democrats In Florida Primary Race

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of State Richard Stone Tuesday nominated 12 Democrats for the state's presidential primary on March 14. The list includes Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, neither of whom is an announced candidate.

Stone also nominated three Republicans for the primary—President Nixon and Reps. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California and John Ashbrook of Ohio, all declared candidates.

Stone's action virtually insures that Wallace, a third-party candidate in 1968, will be on the primary ballot unless the governor himself asks to have his name removed.

The three Democrats on the six-member selection committee that will put the ballot in its final shape could take Wallace off the list, but all three have said he should be included if he wants to run as a Democrat.

Wallace has scheduled a press conference in Tallahassee Thursday to announce his intentions.

Anyone listed by Stone who is a noncandidate—as Kennedy insists he is—has until Feb. 15 to file an affidavit saying he is not a candidate and taking himself off the ballot.

In addition to Wallace and Kennedy, the Democrats listed by Stone were:

Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington, George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Also, U.S. Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

Stone also nominated three Republicans for the primary—President Nixon and Reps. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California and John Ashbrook of Ohio, all declared candidates.

Stone's action virtually insures that Wallace, a third-party candidate in 1968, will be on the primary ballot unless the governor himself asks to have his name removed.

The three Democrats on the six-member selection committee that will put the ballot in its final shape could take Wallace off the list, but all three have said he should be included if he wants to run as a Democrat.

Wallace has scheduled a press conference in Tallahassee Thursday to announce his intentions.

Anyone listed by Stone who is a noncandidate—as Kennedy insists he is—has until Feb. 15 to file an affidavit saying he is not a candidate and taking himself off the ballot.

In addition to Wallace and Kennedy, the Democrats listed by Stone were:

Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington, George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Also, U.S. Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

Court Denies Tax Break To 'Closed' Organization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting on the complaint of a man who says he was denied membership in a Portland, Ore., Elks lodge because he is black, a federal court panel has ruled that fraternal organizations are not entitled to tax breaks if they exclude nonwhites.

The ruling said such organizations are not exempt from federal income taxes and revokes the right of individuals to deduct charitable contributions to such clubs from their income tax.

The order Tuesday by three U.S. District Court judges was in opinion of law which often comes before a final judgment on a particular case. The court has not yet ruled on the validity of the complaint against the Elks lodge.

But the language of the ruling indicates the intent of the court is to rule out all federal tax breaks for fraternal organizations that exclude nonwhites and for members of such organizations.

Citing the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the judges said: "There is a clearly indicated congressional policy that the beneficiaries of federal largesse should not discriminate . . .

"The minds and hearts of men may be beyond the purview of this or any court; perhaps those who cling to infantile and ultimately self-destructive notions of their racial superiority cannot be forced to maturity."

Retiring U.N. Development Chief Presents Final Plans

term to get them started. The development program provides developing countries with technical assistance and investment-generating surveys, training and pilot projects. Supported mainly by voluntary contributions from governments, it spends more on its projects than does the United Nations in its annual budget.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will open the session and present Hoffman and his successor, Rudolph A. Peterson, to the governing council.

Hoffman, 80, administrator of the Marshall Plan after World War II and a U.N. aid executive since 1959, will make his farewell address Friday as administrator of the development program, a post he has held since it was created in 1966.

Peterson, 67, retired president of Bank of America in San Francisco, takes over the next day for a term running through 1975.

The council session, which runs through Jan. 28, will be all Hoffman's; he drafted all the proposals and was granted a 15-day extension of his last

Wine Drinking On Increase

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

Here is a rather surprising new statistic: Americans now drink an average of more than a gallon of wine per year. That means something like 250 million gallons, enough to float several battleships.

Oddly, although Americans are classed as beer drinkers and cocktail sippers, since 1960 wine sales have shot up more than 50 per cent.

This increased wine drinking presents another oddity: Americans are not drinking more sweet wines but the dry table beverages.

Wines are both cheap and expensive. For instance, a bottle of Lafite - Rothschild, 1964 vintage, may sell for as high as $150 per bottle today. On the other side of the coin, there are American wines on the market under one dollar for a fifth.

If you're a wine-biber, remember there is no need to spend a lot of money for a bottle of good wine. Many quality wines, including French imports, are very modestly priced.

Many people are under the impression that wines become better as they age, and pay accordingly. But most wines don't. The average bottle of wine should be imbibed from one to three years after bottling for its best flavor.

Remember, too, that not all wines that are produced in a "great grape year" are great wines, and not all wines bottled in a poor year are bad.

If you're looking for gourmet wines, remember the most expensive wines come from Bordeaux, Burgundy, northern Italy and Germany. Yet wines of almost equal quality (and far less expensive) come from New York State, California, the Loire and Rhone Valleys of France, Alsace, Argentina, Chile, Spain and Austria.

At the moment wines are in such demand people are investing in great vintages, storing the bottled product as a profit item. Some of these imports sell today from $6 to $20, and if stored properly for 10 years are really classed in the rare category, and like antiques of all kinds, are resold at many times their original purchase price.

But if you're storing wine as an investment item, watch out for unknown labels. There are bogus wines on the market today, and perhaps always will be. One other thing to remember: California's mountain wines are rated good to exceptional, so don't shun the domestic product.

America is developing a whole new generation of wine drinkers — the young people switching from Cokes and Pepsi. They're drinking what the trade knows as "pop" wines. Such beverages are not for wine buffs, for they are slightly carbonated, sweet and flavored. But there is a growing market among unsophisticated youth. And then there is "Cold Duck," a mixture of half champagne and half burgundy.

If you think that wine is an important part of the dinner menu — and a growing number of Americans do — read up a bit on wine. It's not true, you'll find, that red wine comes from dark grapes and white wine from green grapes. Red wine is fermented from grapes with their skins, while white wine usually is a product of grapes without skins.

And talking of wines, don't forget that America was almost named after the grape. Viking explorer Lief Ericson suggested it be called Wineland but later historians changed all that.

The grape is one of the oldest foods known to mankind. Grape seeds have been found in remains of lake dwellings of the Bronze Age in Switzerland and Italy and in Egyptian tombs as well. Botanists believe that the Caspian Sea area is the original home of the fruit.

Wine is freely mentioned in the Bible and was a theme for the hieroglyphics of Babylon and Ancient Egypt. Early China had vineyards even in 2,000 B.C. But it was the Greeks who first started growing the grape commercially.

Cinema X Shut Down

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cinema X Theater has been ordered closed down as a public nuisance but it will be permitted to reopen if the operators stop showing films that are allegedly obscene, a court ruled Tuesday.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews, who said he viewed 13 of the films plus excerpts from others, called them "stag movies" and termed them the "grossiest imaginable pornography."

Attorneys for the operators said they were undecided as to whether they would appeal to state or to federal courts, or take no appellate action.

The suit seeking to close the theater as a nuisance was filed by Charles Keating, Cincinnati attorney and founder of the Citizens for Decent Literature organization. The trial lasted 17 days.

After viewing the films and still pictures Judge Mathews said the court "has the best evidence available for the motion pictures displayed by the defendant."

Jet Set Gals Are 'Good Skates'

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

During World War II women in heavy war industries were jivaly referred to as "Rosie the Riveter." In shipyards from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., and in aircraft plants up and down the west coast ladies played a vital role in the war effort.

Today, gals still do — working in jobs as varied as computer operators to cab drivers to research scientists.

But it's doubtful whether any gals anywhere have more fun at their work than a young quartet at the McDonnell - Douglas aircraft plant at Long Beach.

Each making $3 per hour, they skate for their living! Because the plant covers 345 acres, and speed is needed, the four young ladies cover some 20 miles daily on roller skates to deliver blueprints, memos and other documents to the far reaches of the vast complex. Their classification: "Skater."

The four girls are Vernee Weisen, Linda Bush, Janine Wade and Jeanette Bowman. They have gained international attention for their unique method of in-plant locomotion.

Vernee is typical of the roller-skating quartet. Breezing daily down long corridors, through workrooms and laboratories and into the assembly plants, she has perhaps even more occupational hazards than many other female workers. Rubber bands, hairpins and cigarette butts on the floor can cause embarrassing spills . . . so the girls wear slacks on the job.

Pedestrians have learned to be alert to the unpredictabilities of their wheeled colleagues. In one area of the plant, where a 40-foot ramp connects two floors, it's particularly dangerous. The girls gather speed and coast like crazy!

The Douglas company, whose history in aircraft manufacture goes back to the great DC-3 and before, has long used roller skaters.

Marcos Ends Rights Curbs

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos formally restored the right of habeas corpus in the Philippines Tuesday, ending the most controversial action of his six-year-old presidency.

Marcos told newsmen he wants to "bring about normalcy throughout the country as much as possible."

Marcos suspended the constitutional right that a person cannot be held without charges last August after the bombing of an opposition Liberal party political rally in Manila in which nine persons died and nearly 100 other persons — including many of the leading Liberal party leaders — were injured.

The United Nations' 1970 budget is upward of $213 million. Hoffman estimates that the development program will spend more than $350 million this year and more than $2 billion in the next five years. He has always contended that such amounts, though small in comparison to the bilateral aid of such countries as the United States, generate several times their value in investments.

Though mainland China covers 3,691,506 square miles, only 12 per cent of the land is cultivated.

ARE YOUR CALORIES SHOWING?

Are you eating the so-called "empty calories"? Those are foods high in calorie count, but low in nutritional value. You might look healthy, but actually be undernourished, overweight, sluggish, etc. The first step of correction is to follow the Basic - 4 Daily Food Guide. It might also be wise to check the calorie count of fresh vegetables and fruits and compare them with what you have been eating. Compared to most foods, fresh fruits and vegetables are exceptionally low in calories, which means you can eat more, get more food value and at the same time absorb fewer calories. Fresh vegetables and fruits are high in vitamins and minerals. In fact, most of the needed vitamins are secured basically from the vegetables and fruit category. After all it's "What's in the food that counts". You are only as good as the food you eat.

Stock Market Fluctuations Explained To Local Kiwanis

SPEAKER — Ned Granstaff, right, a broker for the Bache Company of Columbus, was guest speaker at the Circleville Kiwanis Monday night meeting. He was introduced by Bertus Bennett (left) program chairman.

ATTENDANCE — Bob Ogden, chairman of the membership development committee, awarded perfect attendance tabs to these Circleville Kiwanians Monday night. From the left are, Truman Eberly, 19 years; Stan Spring, 16 years; Charles Ried, two years; Bob Wilson, 20 years.

Mr. Ned Granstaff, representing the Bache Company of Columbus as a stock broker, was guest speaker at the Circleville Kiwanis Club's Monday night meeting at the Mecca Restaurant.

He explained the risk involved in the buying and selling of commodities, saying "commodities are no business for a person with a squeamish stomach or subject to ulcers."

"A person who cannot afford to lose money should not dabble in commodities," he continued. "Most people have no business in the commodity market, as

75 per cent of the people who speculate will lose money at one time or the other."

In other club business, President Doyle Painter reminded members of the special Division 105 council meeting to be held at the Desert Inn, Columbus, Jan. 17.

He also announced that a special Ladies Night will be held Jan. 24 at the Circleville High School.

Present at the meeting was a five man interclub from the Gahanna Kiwanis Club.

A special guest was Bill Bennett, son of Kiwanian Bertus Bennett.

Guy H. Brown To Run For Representative

Guy H. Brown, a retired employee of the State Highway Department, announced Tuesday his candidacy for State Representative from the new 88th Ohio House Legislative district.

Brown, who lives in Chillicothe, has obtained a petition of intent from the Ross County Board of Elections, and will make a concentrated effort this week to have it filed.

Brown says he has never held a public office. He is a Republican.

He said in an interview that his "education, experience and training" qualify him for the office he seeks.

Incumbent Representative Myrl Shoemaker has been circulating his petition of intent, and will also file in Ross County.

U.S. Reverses Indian Job Training

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reversing a 15-year program of training Indians how to work in the nation's cities, the government says it will start teaching them how to be productive on the reservation.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs planned to announce today its $40 million-a-year training program to teach skills useful on or near reservations. Additionally, the BIA says, it is asking all reservations to draw up long-term development plans.

By May 11, reservations will be chosen for funding of "reservation acceleration programs." BIA Commissioner Louis R. Bruce calls the new program "the most comprehensive ever devised in the BIA to assist American Indians toward self-determination."

Tribal leaders and White House officials have been discussing the changes with Bruce since late last year. And an aide said Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton is among those who have given enthusiastic support.

"This is the beginning of the solution to the Indian problem," the aide said. "It's double-jointed: Jobs and economic and social mobility plus saving their Indian culture by allowing them to stay on the reservation. It's revolutionary."

The five points of the program are:
—A reservation-by-reservation development, perhaps patterned after one still being negotiated by the Standing Rock Sioux tribe of South Dakota. Their plan extends to the year 2,000 and includes provision for a bank, shopping center, cattle industry, rest home and new housing.

—Redirection of the BIA Employment Assistance Program so Indians will no longer have to go to the big cities for job training but may train on or near reservations.

—Protection of natural resources, especially water rights. One main objective will be preserving Pyramid Lake for the Paiutes in Nevada.

—Increasing the number and improving the quality of roads on reservations with the goal of having skilled Indians take over contracting operations.

—Increased Tribal control over education.

Bruce has long chafed under the BIA's implicit encouragement to Indians to flee the reservation for cities, which they often find alien and devoid of opportunities.

An aide acknowledged that some critics might call reservation living a form of segregation "but we consider it allowing Indians to live as they want to live."

Assistant City Manager Charged

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va. (AP)—Preliminary hearings have been scheduled Jan. 26 for A. J. Rouse, former assistant city manager of Weirton charged with two counts of forgery.

Squire John D. Herron issued the warrants against Rouse, currently city manager in Martinsburg, on Monday on request by Hancock County prosecutor Edward Zagula.

Court Procedural Changes Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court will submit recommendations to the legislature by Saturday for reforms of criminal and juvenile court procedures.

There have been reports the recommendations would include a ban on release of the names of any juvenile offenders to the press, a matter now left to the discretion of juvenile judges.

Ohio Highway Fraud Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John Gilligan said Tuesday that veteran state Highway Department employees have been cheating the state and asked for federal help in rooting out violators.

Highway Director J. Phillip Richley began an investigation of the department last spring after a routine internal audit turned up instances of document falsification.

Gilligan said the probe revealed conflicts of interest and collaboration between state employees and outside firms. He asked Federal Highway Administration chief Frank Turner in a letter to look into the matter so that guilty persons could be "prosecuted and steps taken to recover the funds involved."

"It is imperative that action be taken forcefully and swiftly," the governor said, "not only to single out and prosecute those who have abused the public trust... but to remove any unwarranted suspicion cast upon those who are in no way guilty."

She won the award for newspapers in cities of 100,000 to 500,000 population. Dorothy Dawe was a women's editor of the Milwaukee Journal.

Stock Market Fluctuations Explained To Local Kiwanis

SPEAKER — Ned Granstaff, right, a broker for the Bache Company of Columbus, was guest speaker at the Circleville Kiwanis Monday night meeting. He was introduced by Bertus Bennett (left) program chairman.

ATTENDANCE — Bob Ogden, chairman of the membership development committee, awarded perfect attendance tabs to these Circleville Kiwanians Monday night.

From the left are, Truman Eberly, 19 years; Stan Spring, 16 years; Charles Ried, two years; Bob Wilson, 20 years.

Mr. Ned Granstaff, representing the Bache Company of Columbus as a stock broker, was guest speaker at the Circleville Kiwanis Club's Monday night meeting at the Mecca Restaurant.

He explained the risk involved in the buying and selling of commodities, saying "commodities are no business for a person with a squeamish stomach or subject to ulcers."

"A person who cannot afford to lose money should not dabble in commodities," he continued. "Most people have no business in the commodity market, as 75 per cent of the people who speculate will lose money at one time or the other."

In other club business, President Doyle Painter reminded members of the special Division 10S council meeting to be held at the Desert Inn, Columbus, Jan. 17.

He also announced that a special Ladies Night will be held Jan. 24 at the Circleville High School.

Present at the meeting was a five man interclub from the Gahanna Kiwanis Club.

A special guest was Bill Bennett, son of Kiwanian Bertus Bennett.

U.S. Reverses Indian Job Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reversing a 15-year program of training Indians how to work in the nation's cities, the government says it will start teaching them how to be productive on the reservation.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs planned to announce today its $40 million-a-year training program to teach skills useful on or near reservations. Additionally, the BIA says, it is asking all reservations to draw up long-term development plans.

By May 11, reservations will be chosen for funding of "reservation acceleration programs." BIA Commissioner Louis R. Bruce calls the new program "the most comprehensive ever devised in the BIA to assist American Indians toward self-determination."

Tribal leaders and White House officials have been discussing the changes with Bruce since late last year. And an aide said Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton is among those who have given enthusiastic support.

"This is the beginning of the solution to the Indian problem," the aide said. "It's double-jointed: Jobs and economic and social mobility plus saving their Indian culture by allowing them to stay on the reservation. It's revolutionary."

The five points of the program are:

- A reservation-by-reservation development, perhaps patterned after one still being negotiated by the Standing Rock Sioux tribe of South Dakota. Their plan extends to the year 2,000 and includes provision for a bank, shopping center, cattle industry, rest home and new housing.

—Redirection of the BIA Employment Assistance Program so Indians will no longer have to go to the big cities for job training, but may train on or near reservations.

—Protection of natural resources, especially water rights. One main objective will be preserving Pyramid Lake for the Paiutes in Nevada.

—Increasing the number and improving the quality of roads on reservations with the goal of having skilled Indians take over contracting operations.

—Increased Tribal control over education.

Bruce has long chafed under the BIA's implicit encouragement to Indians to flee the reservation for cities, which they often find alien and devoid of opportunities.

An aide acknowledged that some critics might call reservation living a form of segregation "but we consider it allowing Indians to live as they want to live."

Assistant City Manager Charged

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va. (AP)—Preliminary hearings have been scheduled Jan. 26 for A. J. Rouse, former assistant city manager of Weirton charged with two counts of forgery.

Squire John D. Herron issued the warrants against Rouse, currently city manager in Martinsburg, on Monday on request by Hancock County prosecutor Edward Zagala.

Ohio Highway Fraud Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. John Gilligan said Tuesday that veteran state Highway Department employees have been cheating the state and asked for federal help in rooting out violators.

Highway Director J. Phillip Richley began an investigation of the department last spring after a routine internal audit turned up instances of document falsification.

Gilligan said the probe revealed conflicts of interest and collaboration between state employees and outside firms. He asked Federal Highway Administration chief Frank Turner in a letter to look into the matter so that guilty persons could be "prosecuted and steps taken to recover the funds involved."

"It is imperative that action be taken forcefully and swiftly," the governor said, "not only to single out and prosecute those who have abused the public trust... but to remove any unwarranted suspicion cast upon those who are in no way guilty."

Prep Student Drug Use Increases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University psychiatrist's survey in junior and senior high schools in the state has disclosed that about 86,000 pupils have used drugs.

The survey was made by Dr. R. Dean Coddington, professor of psychiatry and pediatrics and director of the child psychiatry division at OSU.

"We have heard that many high school students are involved in drug use, and we wanted to see just how accurate that was," Coddington said. "In addition, we wanted to see what types of drugs were being used and what ages of youths were using various drugs.

He said 15 per cent of the high school population accounts for most teenage drug usage. It represents about 86,000 junior and senior high students who have used alcohol and two or more other drugs at least once.

"In view of the figure of 86,000 youths, we begin to see a significant public health problem," Coddington said.

He reported the survey included more than 5,000 youths, including some 3,000 high school students, junior high pupils, college students and some youths at state institutions.

They resided in various parts of Ohio and in rural, urban and suburban communities.

Coddington called it a good cross section of various population groups. The survey was completed in spring 1970. Results will be published soon in the Ohio State Medical Journal.

Some other findings in the survey: —Boys of all ages use more drugs than girls. Blacks use less alcohol, but more of all other drugs than whites, yet their total drug use is about the same. Coddington said this probably reflects the availability of drugs rather than a racial pattern.

—Urban and suburban youths follow the same drug usage pattern, but some rural communities have not yet felt the impact of drugs.

—Twenty per cent of the students used alcohol one to six times and another 40-60 per cent used it more than six times.

—Fifteen per cent used marijuana one to six times, but only about six per cent used it more than six times.

—About 6 per cent used "speed" or methadrine, up to six times, while 3 per cent used it more than six times. Similar results were received for LSD.

—Four per cent used other hallucinogens up to six times, and about 6 per cent did so more than six times.

—From 3 to 5 per cent used heroin up to six times and about 2 per cent used it more.

—Use of alcohol and marijuana increased with age, leveling off during the college age years.

Mars Photos Show Deep Canyons

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The haze that has hidden Mars since late September and threatened Mariner 9 with failure is rapidly clearing.

Scientists say the orbiting spacecraft's television cameras are returning striking photographs that show strange, unexplained features.

"The photographs are showing us a fantastic range of brand new phenomena that no one ever suspected existed on Mars. Every day something new keeps showing up in the photographs," Dr. Carl Sagan, an astronomer from Cornell University working on the Mariner 9 project said Monday.

The photographs have shown towering ridges and canyons "grander than the Grand Canyon." One such canyon appears to be 6 to 12 miles across and perhaps more than a mile deep, the scientists report.

There are pictures of great craters, one about 70 miles across that closely resemble earth features evolved through volcanic activity.

And one picture shows a 7,000-foot high plateau so riddled with cracks that its appearance has been likened to an elephant's wrinkled skin.

"No one has any good idea what this could be," said one puzzled geology expert.

at the Pa Pao Shan Revolutionary Cemetery Hall in Peking.

Missing from the list of mourners was Defense Minister Lin Biao, Chairman Mao's designated heir who dropped from sight last June and apparently has fallen from power. There was no mention that he even sent a wreath, as did other officials who were absent.

Chen Yi, who was also China's deputy premier and Mao's former secretary, was accused of being a rightist during the cultural purge carried out by Mao in 1966-69. He dropped into obscurity in 1969 and Western reports said he had been purged and was undergoing "re-education."

He reappeared briefly in Peking at a May Day celebration last year, but his absence from his government posts was never explained publicly.

The New China News Agency said Chen received a special tribute from Mao, whose last public appearance was on Nov. 22.

Chou eulogized Chen as an "outstanding member of the Communist party of China and a staunch fighter of the Chinese people."

Chen went to France as a student in 1918 where he joined the Chinese Socialist Youth League in 1921. He was expelled that October for taking part in demonstrations.

He joined the Chinese Communist party in 1922 and three years later was listed as a wanted man for participating in antigovernment demonstrations.

Big For Sweets

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — If somebody offered to buy five pounds of sweet potatoes from W. W. Skidmore of Blossom, he might have to split one.

Skidmore, a retired rural postman, dug his own sweet potatoes this fall and turned up one that weighed seven and a half pounds. Another went five and a half pounds.

Wilkins Agrees No Black Veep

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, says Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was "probably right" in saying that voters would not support a national ticket that included a black vice presidential candidate.

"Muskie met the question head-on," Wilkins told a news conference Monday. "It was his estimate of the mood of the country, and my estimate of the mood of the country is that Mr. Muskie is probably right."

Muskie, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a group of blacks in Los Angeles last September that he did not believe the nation would elect a ticket with a black vice president. The statement has continued to draw criticism.

Gertrude Donahey Pledged To Muskie

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Treasurer Gertrude W. Donahey Tuesday announced as a candidate for delegate - at - large pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, following a late night session with department heads, said he had tentatively decided against running as a delegate in the May primary.

Homes Are Target For Burglaries

By Central Press

MONTEREY PARK, Calif. — Did you ever lock yourself out of your home, then break a window or jimmy a lock to get back in? Chances are, re-entry wasn't very difficult.

Think how much easier it would be for a professional burglar to enter.

That's why burglaries represent the largest single category of crime — a whopping 40 per cent. Residential burglaries account for 56 per cent of total burglaries and daytime residential burglaries are up a dramatic 286 per cent in the past nine years. Losses from residential burglaries amounted to more than $363 million in 1969, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Worse yet, only one out of five reported burglaries is cleared. Most stolen articles simply disappear.

A household is almost the perfect set-up for a felon — especially if the occupants are away during the day.

Every homeowner should take the common-sense precautions against theft: properly install secure tumbler locks and use them, don't hide keys in logical places, and avoid calling attention to prolonged absence. But even with the most elaborate alarm systems, a "pro" can get in to steal untraceable valuables.

There is a very simple, effective and inexpensive theft deterrent gaining recognition across the country that makes even the most experienced burglar think twice. It's a program called "Operation Identification" that hits would-be robbers where they make their profit.

The program is the brainchild of Everett Holladay, police chief of Monterey Park, involves the identification of all valuables by using a Vibrograver to engrave the homeowner's driver's license number on them. Items identified are then registered with the police.

Participating households receive official stickers to be placed conspicuously on doors and windows warning that "all items of value on these premises have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies."

Operation Identification helps deter burglars in three ways. First, the presence of the stickers discourages a thief from entering at all. Second, if a thief is stopped by police with identified articles in his possession, conviction chances are greatly improved. And third, marked possessions are anathema to the "fence." As a result, the thief is often stuck with "hot," unsaleable merchandise.

Better yet, the householder has an improved chance of getting stolen objects back.

Chief Holladay started Operation Identification in Monterey Park in 1963. Out of 4,000 participating households, only three have been burglarized since then.

Ex-Hughes Aide Says Book True

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Billionaire Howard Hughes may have cooperated in an autobiography, then tried to deny it when attorneys advised him it was libelous, a former top Hughes aide said Monday.

Noah Dietrich, 82, an aide to the reclusive industrialist from 1925 until 1957, said "I think he went into this thing and he's got himself trapped and he's trying to get out of it."

McGraw-Hill Book Co. says it is publishing in March the authentic autobiography of Hughes, written in collaboration with Clifford Irving. The publishers say it was closely edited for libel.

Dietrich said "there isn't any question in the world" that it was Hughes who spoke by telephone to seven newsmen Friday and denied the authenticity of the autobiography.

But Irving has said he thought it was not Hughes who talked to the newsmen.

The most peculiar aspect of the case, Dietrich said, is the cancelled checks McGraw-Hill cites as record of payment to Hughes.

Dietrich said Hughes could not have failed to realize that the checks would be made public if he denied involvement in the book.

Huge Rat Pack Battled By Egyptian Scientists

By AHMED SHAWKI

CAIRO (AP) — An hour's drive west of the Suez Canal, a small group of Egyptian scientists are planning ways to annihilate the enemy.

The enemy in this case is more than double the size of the Egyptian army.

It already has destroyed 20 per cent of Egypt's major foreign income source and is denying food to the poor, frightening the populace and spreading disease.

The strategists are experts in pesticides. The enemy is the biggest rat pack in memory, perhaps 200 million strong.

Experts have studied the problem for some two years and are ready to act.

According to an official report, they found the rats live on cotton weeds and flowers, sugarcane weeds and dirt.

The report pointed out Egypt also is losing $46 million annually as a result of various rat attacks. If the rats are left unchecked, the loss may be doubled in two years time, the report warns.

The government sought World Health Organization help. An expert visited Cairo. He noticed, according to a report, that numbers of rats ran about the basements of Cairo Airport, customs stores, and inside electric power stations. He suggested these places by quickly cleaned.

For years, rats have caused power failures in the country. Certain type of rats nibble the cable wires which cause the failures, a report said.

General Telephone Trains Dan Cooper

Daniel L. Cooper, 21, of Route 1, Stoutsville, an installer-repairman, has received a certificate for completing a course in pole climbing at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's Plant Training School here.

Cooper attended Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. He has been with the company four months. He works in exchanges in the company's Circleville district.

Trainees at the school are taught correct and safe methods in the art of pole climbing. These methods include physical conditioning and use of safety equipment.

Fire Proves Fatal To 2

WELLSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Fire in two downtown buildings Tuesday night claimed two lives.

City officials say the 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Zwisch of East Liverpool and Shirley Algood, 17, his babysitter, died when a blaze engulfed an adjoining pair of two-story brick buildings.

The buildings, housing stores on the ground levels and apartments above, were destroyed.

Firemen from Wellsville, East Liverpool and East Liverpool Township were called to battle the fire.

Wellsville Fire Chief Robert Lewis has promised an investigation into the cause of the fire will begin today.

Pepper Fungi Noted By University Prof

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A University of Minnesota professor says the average gram of black pepper contains 53,000 tiny colonies of fungi.

"I used to pepper practically everything, but now I use it only on my eggs," Clyde Christensen, a professor of plant pathology, said. "My wife won't eat pepper anymore."

Girl Still Likes Nixon

CAREY, Ohio (AP)—The 13-year-old girl who gave President Nixon his winning campaign slogan, "Bring us together," is 16 now, says she's more liberal and thinks her President is doing a good job.
Vicki Lynne Cole was standing in a crowd in Deshler northwest of Findlay when Nixon breezed through during the 1968 campaign. She was holding a sign that said "Bring us together again."
The slogan caught the candidate's eye and he adopted it for the remainder of the campaign.

Later he brought Vicki, now a high school junior, and her family to Washington for his inauguration.
"I think he's done a lot toward bringing us together, as much as any man could do as President," Vicki says. "He's done a lot to get us out of Vietnam and I really think he's done a good thing on relations with Russia and China."
Vicki says she tends "to be more liberal now. If you want changes that's the only way to do it. I guess I'm kind of a liberal on the moderate side."
The report pointed out Egypt also is losing $46 million annually as a result of various rat attacks. If the rats are left unchecked, the loss may be doubled in two years time, the report warns.

Just a year ago at the start of the Christmas Season, the youngsters of the United Methodist Fellowship Group, Atlanta, Ohio, lost their dearly loved adviser, Mrs. Jake (Mary) Justice. Her sudden and untimely death brought the end to one of her fondest wishes, an organ for the church. Not wishing this to be so, the group decided, along with their new adviser, Mrs. Donald Kempton, to try to make this wish come true.

Today these teenagers started a fund in her memory, making a donation of $100 themselves. A lot of hard work went into making that amount, and they plan to continue this project. If anyone would like to help in this, donations may be sent directly to the First National Bank, New Holland, Ohio, Mary Justice Memorial Fund or to the treasurer of the UMYF at the church.

I am proud of our youngsters and am taking this means to let them know it. I think actions like these prove that the teenager of today has a lot more on the ball than most people give them credit for.

Assign Districts To Nicholas Drive Elementary

A general assignment plan for students in the northern districts was recommended by Circleville Schools Superintendent Fritz Jacobs for the school year 1972-73.

Studies had been underway to determine locations to be assigned to Nicholas Drive Elementary in the coming fall term utilizing additional space offered by the ten classrooms being built there. Board members acted favorably on the recommendation assigning school-aged children from Garden City, Northwood Park and Knollwood Village to Nicholas Drive.

Present fifth grade students from these areas who attend Atwater will be allowed to select the school they desire to attend during their sixth year. They will be permitted to finish their final year of elementary schooling at Atwater with the written request of a parent, regardless of where they live according to the new scheduling.

Kindergarten assignment is to remain flexible, according to the superintendent, with students assigned to either Nicholas Drive or Atwater so most ideal class size can be arranged.

DUNKLE Road, previously considered for a change, will remain in its present status with elementary students from that area attending Atwater.

Tuesday night's session of the school board was one of the shortest on record and, according to Jacobs, definitely one with the least business to consider in all his years here. The superintendent's agenda for the evening consisted of only one page, where it usually fills three or four and often more.

Presiding at the January, 1972 meeting was the new board president, Dale DeLong. Dr. Robert Liggett took his seat with other members Forrest Brown and Ruth Kraus. Tom Elsea, the other board member, was not present.

Other items considered by the board included the resignation

The next meeting was scheduled for Friday in the American Embassy.

Barbara Frazier, half time secretary at the junior high and half time secretary for the school nurse, effective March 1. Her reason for resigning was added home responsibilities.

Perk Rips 'Drones' On Payroll

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Charging that the city civil service commission is "protecting the drones and the political hacks who have turned city hall into a private welfare department," Mayor Ralph Perk announced plans Tuesday night to dismiss all five commissioners.

Previous mayors have ousted individual commission members on occasion, but no one could remember a mayor ever booting out all five commissioners at one time.

The mayor has been feuding with the commissioners, who have repeatedly overruled him on firings of city workers since Perk took office in November.

The mayor issued a statement saying in part, "efforts of this city to pull itself out of financial chaos are being thwarted by five appointees of the previous administration who take it upon themselves to keep as many drones and political hacks on the payroll as possible."

He said he is asking his law director to bring charges of "malfeasance of office and neglect of duty" against the five commission members.

The city charter provides the commissioners may have a public hearing before the mayor ten days after they have been given the allegations.

The commission president is Walter Burks Jr., who was personnel director under Stokes. Other commissioners are Thomas Ryan, Arthur Heard, David Sindell and Mrs. Marnette Lee.

Arab Guerrillas Strike Again From Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas in Lebanon kept up their attack on Israeli settlements today despite an Israeli strike into southern Lebanon 24 hours earlier.

The guerrillas fired a Katyusha rocket early today at the town of Kiryat Shmona, in northern Galilee, but caused no casualties. The rocket exploded outside a kindergarten, damaging the building and shattering windows of adjacent homes.

Israeli artillery returned the fire. It was the fourth shelling of Kiryat Shmona in a week.

The Israeli raid into southern Lebanon, in which two Israeli soldiers were killed, was in retaliation for a recent increase in attacks by Arab guerrillas along the northern border.

Alleged Bank Bandit Caught

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 52-year-old Texan was in federal custody today after running into the arms of a Covington police officer after allegedly having robbed the Second Federal Savings & Loan Association office Tuesday.

Sgt. George Becker collided with Henry Edward Melton in an alley near the building and loan. He said $2,000, taken in the holdup, was in the man's shirt.

Melton told officers he recently had been released from a prison in Texas. The FBI took over the case.

Just a year ago at the start of the Christmas Season, the youngsters of the United Methodist Fellowship Group, Atlanta, Ohio, lost their dearly loved adviser, Mrs. Jake (Mary) Justice. Her sudden and untimely death brought the end to one of her fondest wishes, an organ for the church. Not wishing this to be so, the group decided, along with their new adviser, Mrs. Donald Kempton, to try to make this wish come true.

Today these teenagers started a fund in her memory, making a donation of $100 themselves. A lot of hard work went into making that amount, and they plan to continue this project. If anyone would like to help in this, donations may be sent directly to the First National Bank, New Holland, Ohio, Mary Justice Memorial Fund or to the treasurer of the UMYF at the church.

I am proud of our youngsters and am taking this means to let them know it. I think actions like these prove that the teenager of today has a lot more on the ball than most people give them credit for.

New Look In Basketball Games Tried

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If an Ohio experiment proves successful, quarters for high school basketball games may become extinct.

Fred Daffler, assistant commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, proposes two 1-minute halves, a 12-minute halftime intermission and a limit of three times out per half.

Currently, high school games across the nation are played in four eight-minute quarters with a 10-minute break at halftime and five timeouts for the entire contest.

As many as 50 regular season games will be played under the new rules to give Daffler the information he needs for the National Basketball Committee's March meeting in Los Angeles. Daffler doesn't consider his plan a "speed up" idea, although eight "laboratory" games played in Ohio in December generally were shorter.

A former coach, official and school administrator, Daffler thinks his revision would improve basketball for fans, players and coaches.

With some exceptions, reports from the eight games played so far under the plan have backed Daffler.

"There's no point in playing quarters. We don't change goals. The only thing you are doing is giving every team a free time out," Daffler contends.

After one experimental contest, a coach said, "the game had more continuity and the action seemed to flow."

A principal agreed, adding, "The crowd remained in its seats better. The game seemed far more uniform as to effort."

Bob Lilly Top Foe For Dolphins

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I don't hate anybody," said Bob Lilly, the demon of Dallas' doomsday defense. "I don't see personalities out there. I see figures, like men on a chess board."

"They want to come on my side of the field. My job is to see that they stay on their side of the field."

"Simple, impersonal geometry characterizes the game philosophy of this pleasant, soft-speaking giant who throws his 260 pounds of muscle against pro football's best rushing offense, that of the Miami Dolphins, in Sunday's Super Bowl."

Lilly, a 6-foot-5 tackle with the grace of a ballet dancer and the quickness of a jungle cat, is the Cowboy most feared by the Miami Dolphins—by their own almost unanimous admission—in the championship spectacular.

"I rate Lilly with Alan Page of Minnesota—they're the greatest linemen in pro football," said Miami's Coach Don Shula.

"The Miami players view him with such awe and respect that they refuse to call him by name. In referring to Dallas' tackles, they say 'Jethroe Pugh and that other fellow.'"

"We don't want to make him mad," said Larry Csonka, one half of Miami's formidable running combination.

The New York Mets and St. Louis Cardinals will open their baseball exhibition season on Saturday, March 11 in St. Petersburg.

County Schools Encounter Rugged Cage Contests

County cage action this week finds Teays Valley going to the boards Friday night while Logan Elm and Westfall will play both Friday and Saturday.

The Vikings (1-7) will be at Hamilton Twp. Friday, Logan Elm (3-7) will be home both nights, meeting Laurelville Friday and going against Huntington on Saturday while Westfall (2-8) travels to Piketon on Friday and hosts Greenfield McClain Saturday.

Coach Bob Hoover and his Vikings will be out for their second win of the season when they take on the Rangers who have an 0-9 record on the books.

After downing Miami Trace in the season opener, the Vikings have had their troubles but came up with a lot of offensive effort last week before dropping a narrow decision to Dublin.

Tiger Frosh Defeated By Tough Vikings

Circleville's freshmen cage team was upended by Teays Valley's undefeated squad 49-44 in a hard fought contest Tuesday on the Viking's floor.

The little Tigers jumped out in front 12-10 at the end of the first period but trailed 28-23 at halftime.

Teays Valley turned it on in the third canto to take a 42-32 lead at the end of the canto and then held off a fourth quarter rally by the Tigers to gain the victory.

Perry Hoskins hooped 16 points to pace Circleville and lead all scorers in the contest. Phil Roll added 13, Pat McNaughton had seven, Riley Rose four and Doug Palm and Tim McNaughton each had two in the losing effort.

For the Vikings (8-0) it was Terry Collins with 11 tallies, Steve Williams, Terry Southern and Chuck Glitt with eight points apiece. George Spahn and Dave Glick each had five and Steve Gregory chilled in with four for the winners.

Circleville is now 6-3 for the season and will host Miami Trace Jan. 20.

Winter Baseball Draft Set Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Major League baseball's 24 teams were to be linked by telephone with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office today for the annual winter free agent draft.

About 300 players—graduating high school and college seniors, and athletes drafted but unsigned previously—were expected to be chosen in the regular and secondary phases of the draft.

Princeton Ends Penn Win String, 69-56

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer
When Chuck Daly took over as head basketball coach at Pennsylvania during the off-season, he inherited nine lettermen from a team which had been third-ranked nationally after compiling a 28-1 record—and its second straight 14-0 Ivy League mark in 1970-71.

What he didn't inherit was the two starting guards from that team, Steve Bilsky and Dave Wohl, both of whom graduated.

He could have used them Tuesday night.

Princeton, with guard Brian Taylor showing the way on offense and reserve backcourtman Reggie Bird providing the defensive spark, broke Penn's 30-game Ivy League winning streak with a 69-56 upset of the sixth-ranked Quakers at Princeton's cavernous Jadwin Gym.

Princeton, which is unranked is now 3-0 in Ivy play and 10-2 overall. Penn is 2-1 against league foes and 9-2 in all.

Bird, a 6-foot-1, senior who got to play because regular guard Ted Manakas had the flu, scored 15 points and stole the ball four times in the first half, twice getting uncontested lay-ups. Sophomore forward John Berger came off the bench to chip in another 15 points. Taylor, the Tigers' high scorer on the season, paced Princeton with 17.

"The key to the game was putting pressure on the ball with everything we had," declared Princeton Coach Pete Carril.

Which is where the departed Penn guards, Bilsky and Wohl, come in.

With those two quick guards in the lineup, opponents knew it would be futile to press the Quakers. But with a 6-7 Corky Calhoun, 6-5 Alan Cotler and sophomore Whitey Varga manning the back line, it's a different story.

Second-ranked Marquette, coming off its bruising one-point victory over South Carolina Sunday, traveled to Nevada and overpowered Nevada-Reno 82-55.

Bob Lackey scored 23 points, Jim Chones netted 19 and Larry McNeill added 18 as Marquette raised its record to 11-0. Charles Bush led Nevada, 2-11, with 18 points.

No. 12 Florida State outscored Mercer 20-8 in the final 6:28 to pull away to a 96-78 victory, giving Seminole Coach Hugh Durham his 100th college basketball victory. Reggie Royals scored 23 and Ron King added 22 for Florida State, now 12-2.

Illinois, ranked 16th, was upset by Big Ten rival Michigan

75-70 as all five Michigan starters scored in double figures. Illinois led 34-33 at the half fell behind 69-62 with 5:56 to go, then came back to within one but could not pull even. Ernie Johnson led Michigan with 19 points and Henry Wilmore added 17.

Sophomore George Gervin scored a basket with three seconds left to nudge Eastern Michigan past Duquesne 70-69, knocking the Dukes from the unbeaten ranks. Gervin led Eastern Michigan with 22 points while Lionel Billingsly and John Wojdowski each had 18 for Duquesne, now 8-1.

In other major games, Mike Bantam scored 31 points to power St. Joseph's, Pa., past Rider 77-63; Michigan State shot 58 per cent from the field in the second half to overcome Wisconsin 83-76; Rick Williams' 24 points sparked Iowa past Northwestern 76-67; Texas upped its record to 7-3 by beating Oklahoma State 67-61, and West Texas State got 33 points from its captain, Ralph Houston, and downed Drake 87-78.

Also, Detroit's five starters all hit double figures as the Titans whipped St. Francis, Pa. 101-82; St. Bonaventure won its seventh in nine outings by topping Xavier, Ohio 71-50; Alabama sank 61 per cent of its shots from the field to beat LSU 101-80, and Sam Simmons scored 22 to push Bradley, 9-4, past St. Cloud State 99-76.

MAC Chief Likes Frosh Eligibility

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mid-American commissioner Fred Jacoby favors the new NCAA rule permitting freshmen to play varsity football and basketball and thinks his conference will adopt it in the spring.

"It's permissive legislation. A conference can adopt it or not. I think we will go for it," said Jacoby.

Athletic directors and faculty representatives of the eight Mid-American schools will discuss the issue in April and probably recommend its adoption by the conference's Council of Presidents in May.

"This way they will have a chance to fully digest it and see any implications," said Jacoby.

Although he would not disclose the vote by Mid-American members on the freshmen issue, Jacoby said the majority favored it when it was passed at the NCAA convention last week.

Jacoby said the big reason for playing freshmen in all sports is the financial squeeze on college athletic departments. "Basically, it will be a cost saving factor," he said. "It should mean fewer grants-in-aid."

"We're getting down to the bare bone financially," said Jacoby. "The schools I really feel sorry for are the private ones."

"A grant costs them close to $3,000 a year. For state institutions, it's in the $1,800 to $2,000 range," he said.

Toledo, Ohio University, Miami of Ohio, Kent State, Bowling Green, Western Michigan, Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan, current Mid-American members, all are state-supported universities. Jacoby dismissed the main criticism of the new rule—that freshmen are too young and inexperienced and they need a year to adjust to campus life.

"If they were playing right away, I would have more reservation," he said, "but most of them won't be unless he's a punter, punt returner or wide receiver."

Jacoby's major concern is the affect of the prospective freshmen athlete not on a grant.

"I hope it doesn't discourage the walk-on from trying out," said the Mid-American leader.

"Some boys not on grants may feel coaches don't want to fool with them. On freshmen teams, they felt they had a better chance," he said.

Current Mid-American regulations permit five freshmen games in football and 14 in basketball. That, according to Jacoby, will be revised.

"Most coaches would like a junior varsity schedule," he said, permitting freshmen who do not make the varsity as well as upper classmen to join the Jayvees.

Critics of the freshmen rule say the pressures of recruiting blue chip high school stars will be worse than they are now. Jacoby disagrees.

"I don't think it will be a key factor because the outstanding kids already are recruited strongly," the commissioner said.

Jacoby contends a college team hit hard by graduation won't dip into the high school ranks for varsity replacements the next season.

"A team losing a lot of seniors will go to the junior college ranks for more experienced players," he explained.

Urbana Defeats Defiance 117-79; Mark Todd Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Basketball fans in Urbana are wondering what got into Mark Todd Tuesday night.

Todd, who went into last night's game against undefeated Defiance with a 24.7 point average, drilled in 49 points to pace Urbana to a resounding 117-79 victory and snap Defiance's 11-game winning streak.

John Plunkett added 24 for the winners. Jim Amstutz led Defiance with 19.

Another Ohio cager smashed the 40-point barrier Tuesday night. Ray Pace poured in 43 points as Wilberforce humiliated Mt. Vernon Nazarene College, 115-62.

Vic Guerrieri turned in a 37-point performance to pace the Oberlin Yeomen to an 89-76 victory over Muskingum in Ohio Conference play.

Guerrieri scored 22 of his points in the second half, when Oberlin widened its lead and sewed up the game. The Yeomen are now 2-1 in conference play and 5-4 on the season.

Jim Vejsicky led Muskingum with 23. The Muskies are also 5-4 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

Baldwin Wallace let Heidelberg put their game into overtime last night with a field goal that tied the game at 76-76, but came back to win in the extra minutes, 84-81.

Larry McElfrish, who led BW scoring with 20 points, put his team ahead once and for all with a layup that made the score 80-78. The game, tied 39-39 one minute before the first half ended, was close all the way.

The Yellow Jackets are now 6-4 overall and 2-1 in the Ohio Conference. The Student Princes have a depressing nine-loss record, four of them in conference play.

Bethany of West Virginia grabbed an 88-87 President's Athletic Conference victory over Hiram when Randy Fox made the second of two free throw attempts with no time left on the clock.

Hiram led until Bethany tied the score at 85-85 with less than two minutes to go, thanks to two free throws by Jim Schmitt, who led the Bisons with 26 points.

Xavier lost its fifth game out of 11 last night, a 71-50 drubbing at the hands of St. Bonaventure of New York. Tom Binegar led Xavier with 15 points.

The game was close until the final eight minutes, when the Bonnies put on a scoring surge and widened their lead.

John Plunkett added 24 for the winners. Jim Amstutz led Defiance with 19.

Another Ohio cager smashed the 40-point barrier Tuesday night. Ray Pace poured in 43 points as Wilberforce humiliated Mt. Vernon Nazarene College, 115-62.

Vic Guerrieri turned in a 37-point performance to pace the Oberlin Yeomen to an 89-76 victory over Muskingum in Ohio Conference play.

Guerrieri scored 22 of his points in the second half, when Oberlin widened its lead and sewed up the game. The Yeomen are now 2-1 in conference play and 5-4 on the season.

Jim Vejsieky led Muskingum with 23. The Muskies are also 5-4 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

Baldwin Wallace let Heidelberg put their game into overtime last night with a field goal that tied the game at 76-76, but came back to win in the extra minutes, 84-81.

Larry McElfrish, who led Bowling Green with 20 points, put his team ahead once and for all with a layup that made the score 80-78. The game, tied 39-39 one minute before the first half ended, was close all the way.

The Yellow Jackets are now 6-4 overall and 2-1 in the Ohio Conference. The Student Princes have a depressing nine-loss record, four of them in conference play.

Bethany of West Virginia grabbed an 88-87 President's Athletic Conference victory over Hiram when Randy Fox made the second of two free throw attempts with no time left on the clock.

Hiram led until Bethany tied the score at 85-85 with less than two minutes to go, thanks to two free throws by Jim Schmitt, who led the Bisons with 26 points.

Xavier lost its fifth game out of 11 last night, a 71-50 drubbing at the hands of St. Bonaventure of New York. Tom Binegar led Xavier with 15 points.

The game was close until the final eight minutes, when the Bonnies put on a scoring surge and widened their lead.

Pros Drop Dallas Chaps; Win 88-86

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dallas Chaparrals were within a minute of salvation from last place in the West Division of the American Basketball Association but George Lahmann got away from them.

Lahmann hit four points in the last minute as the Memphis Pros edged the Chaps 88-86 Tuesday night.

The Chaps needed a victory to drop the Pros into last place and had the lead for most of the game. Memphis staged a comeback, tied the game with 1:17 remaining and Lahmann hit a 15-foot jump shot and a layup for the Pros' final points and the victory.

In other ABA games, New York defeated Utah 110-104 and Indiana topped Denver 114-99.

The Memphis player Dallas was watching center Randy Denton who scored 16 points in the final quarter and whose foul shot tied the game at 84-84. Denton led the Pros' surge from a 47-37 halftime deficit and finished with 26 points. Lahmann finished with 14.

Corrigan Is Named Demo Party Chief

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cuyahoga County Commissioner Hugh Corrigan has been named chairman of the county's Democratic party, succeeding Joseph Bartunek, who resigned.

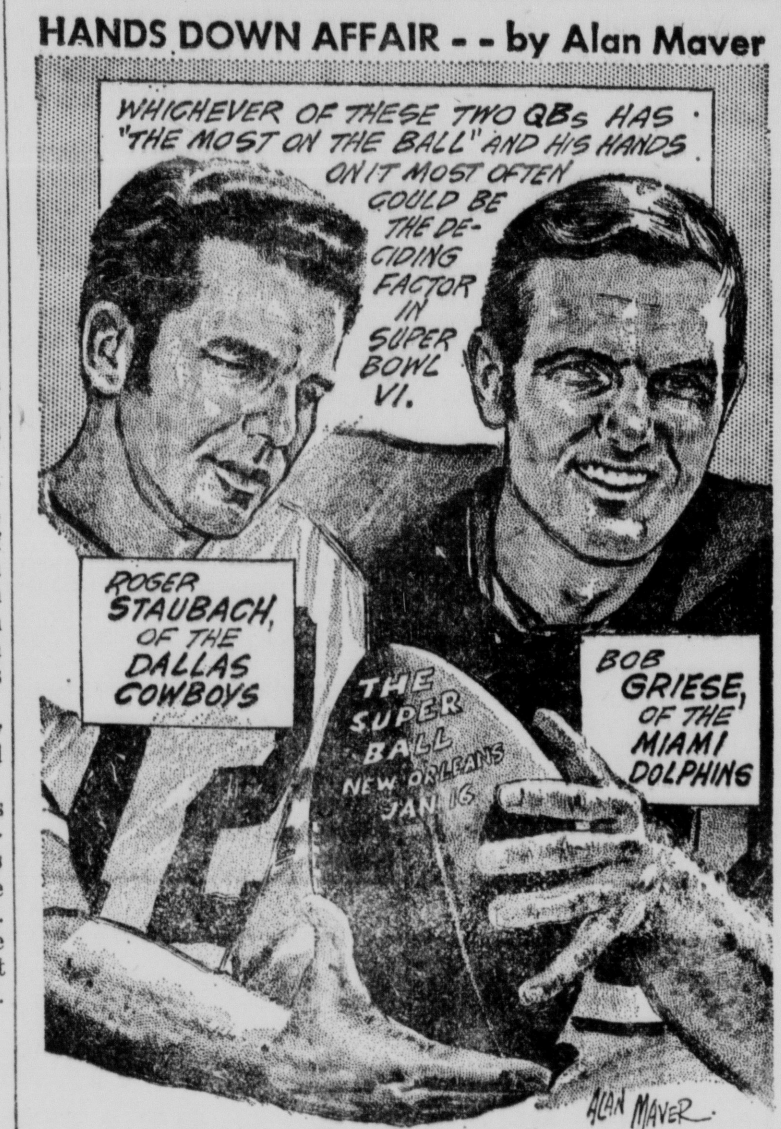

Corrigan, the local party's first vice president and next in line for the leadership position, was elected by the party's executive committee late Monday night.

Thistledown Derby To Be Richest Ever

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Derby at Thistledown this year will be the richest race in Ohio thoroughbred racing history.

Mike Mackey, racing secretary at the track, announced Tuesday that the 38th running of the mile and one-eighth derby June 17 would carry a guaranteed purse of $100,000, with the winner receiving $63,000.

Last year's $50,000-added derby purse amounted to $57,550 and the winner's share was $36,256.

Pamphlet Aimed At Kurfess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A four-page mimeographed "History of the Income Tax Battle" is circulating at the Statehouse with a text aimed at House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg.

The pamphlet was written by Rep. James Thorpe, R-90 Alliance, who emphasized the speaker's role in passing the income tax bill.

"He wanted the state income tax passed, and he wanted it passed with Democrat votes," Thorpe writes. "He was determined to do this without regard for the views of the members of the Republican caucus who had elected him leader. He was willing to turn his back on his own members and as later events proved, he did just that."

Kurfess said the pamphlet "tends to flatter me although I'm sure it's not intended to."

Thorpe said he wrote the pamphlet over the Christmas holidays and circulated it among lobbyists and Republicans who joined him in opposing the personal income tax.

"When this issue becomes cold," he said, "somebody might appreciate having something that was written at the time. History has a way of getting forgotten."

Expand Lands

TORONTO (AP) — The Ontario government has announced a three-year expansion program for eastern Ontario winter deer-grazing lands. To establish the ranges, crews of local men will be hired to cut nonmarketable hardwoods and remove shade-producing trees to stimulate regeneration of hardwoods and growth for deer grazing.

Padraic Colum Dies

ENFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Padraic Colum, who first absorbed the history, legends and songs of Ireland in front of his grandmother's hearth and later spun them through more than 60 volumes of poems, plays and children's stories, is dead at 90.

ABA East All-Stars Selected

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association's three leading scorers, its top rebounder and its best playmaker have been named to the Eastern Division's starting lineup for the ABA All-Star game at Louisville Jan. 29.

Chosen to the team Tuesday in balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters from throughout the league were guard Charlie Scott of Virginia, forward Rick Barry of New York, forward Dan Issel of Kentucky, center Artis Gilmore of Kentucky and guard Bill Melchionni of New York.

The 6-foot-5 Scott, co-rookie of the year last season along with Issel, leads the league in scoring with an average of 34.9 points per game. The 6-7 Barry, a former ABA and National Basketball Association champion, currently is second with a 31.5 mark, just ahead of 6-9 Issel, the defending scoring champion, who is averaging 31.3.

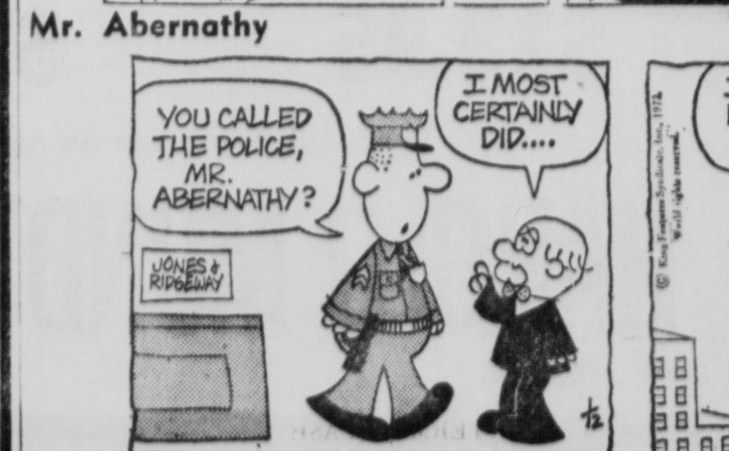

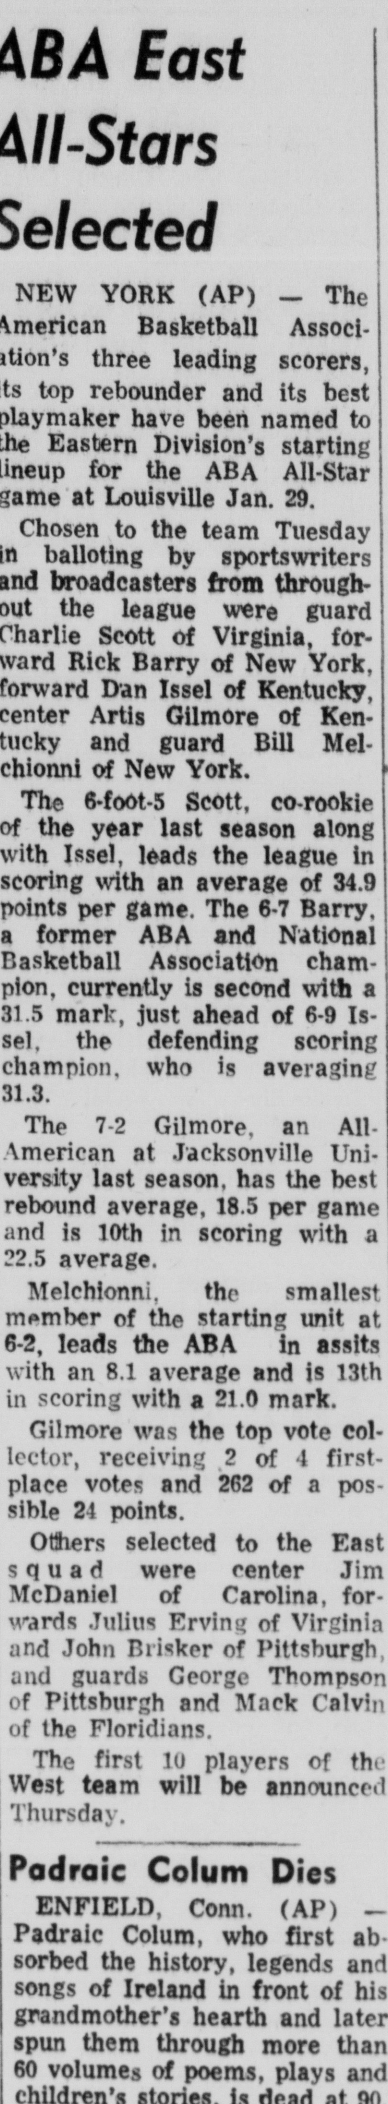

The 7-2 Gilmore, an All-American at Jacksonville University last season, has the best rebound average, 18.5 per game and is 10th in scoring with a 22.5 average.

Melchionni, the smallest member of the starting unit at 6-2, leads the ABA in assists with an 8.1 average and is 13th in scoring with a 21.0 mark.

Gilmore was the top vote collector, receiving 2 of 4 first-place votes and 262 of a possible 24 points.

Others selected to the East squad were center Jim McDaniel of Carolina, forwards Julius Erving of Virginia and John Brisker of Pittsburgh, and guards George Thompson of Pittsburgh and Mack Calvin of the Floridians.

The first 10 players of the West team will be announced Thursday.

"He was determined to do this without regard for the views of the members of the Republican caucus who had elected him leader. He was willing to turn his back on his own members and as later events proved, he did just that."

Kurfess said the pamphlet "tends to flatter me although I'm sure it's not intended to."

Thorpe said he wrote the pamphlet over the Christmas holidays and circulated it among lobbyists and Republicans who joined him in opposing the personal income tax.

"When this issue becomes cold," he said, "somebody might appreciate having something that was written at the time. History has a way of getting forgotten."

Expand Lands

TORONTO (AP) — The Ontario government has announced a three-year expansion program for eastern Ontario winter deer-grazing lands. To establish the ranges, crews of local men will be hired to cut nonmarketable hardwoods and remove shade-producing trees to stimulate regeneration of hardwoods and growth for deer grazing.

ABA East All-Stars Selected

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association's three leading scorers, its top rebounder and its best playmaker have been named to the Eastern Division's starting lineup for the ABA All-Star game at Louisville Jan. 29.

Chosen to the team Tuesday in balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters from throughout the league were guard Charlie Scott of Virginia, forward Rick Barry of New York, forward Dan Issel of Kentucky, center Artis Gilmore of Kentucky and guard Bill Melchionni of New York.

The 6-foot-5 Scott, co-rookie of the year last season along with Issel, leads the league in scoring with an average of 34.9 points per game. The 6-7 Barry, a former ABA and National Basketball Association champion, currently is second with a 31.5 mark, just ahead of 6-9 Issel, the defending scoring champion, who is averaging 31.3.

The 7-2 Gilmore, an All-American at Jacksonville University last season, has the best rebound average, 18.5 per game and is 10th in scoring with a 22.5 average.

Melchionni, the smallest member of the starting unit at 6-2, leads the ABA in assists with an 8.1 average and is 13th in scoring with a 21.0 mark.

Gilmore was the top vote collector, receiving 2 of 4 first-place votes and 262 of a possible 24 points.

Others selected to the East squad were center Jim McDaniel of Carolina, forwards Julius Erving of Virginia and John Brisker of Pittsburgh, and guards George Thompson of Pittsburgh and Mack Calvin of the Floridians.

The first 10 players of the West team will be announced Thursday.

The Senate voted to repeal Ohio's five-man requirement, except on trains longer than 5,000 feet. The exception was added in an amendment offered by Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati.

Since the average freight train in Ohio is 7,500 feet long, most trains will be unaffected by the repeal. The bill must go back to the House, where it originated, for concurrence in the crippling amendment.

The redistricting bill will also have to return to the House if it passes the Senate as amended in committee. The changes approved Tuesday would affect five districts as follows:

FOURTH DISTRICT—Add all of Mercer County and part of Darke and Putnam counties. Remove Wyandot County, part of Seneca County and the City of Fostoria on the border of Seneca and Wood counties.

FIFTH DISTRICT—Add Seneca and Wood counties along with part of Putnam. Remove the rest of Putnam.

SIXTH DISTRICT—Add Xenia and other parts of Greene County. Remove part of Warren County.

SEVENTH DISTRICT—Add Wyandot County and parts of Crawford and Greene counties. Remove the rest of Greene County.

EIGHTH DISTRICT—Butler and Preble counties and that portion of Darke County within the townships of Butler, Harrison, Liberty, Monroe, Neava, Twin and Van Bureau; that portion of Montgomery County in the townships of German, Jackson, Jefferson, Madison, Miami and Perry, and that part of Warren County within the municipal corporation of Loveland.

Marshall Jet Crash Report Release Near

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — The final report on Marshall University's jetliner crash of Nov. 14, 1970, to be considered next week by the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, contains very few recommendations for changes to the Federal Aviation Administration, a Huntington newspaper said today.

The Herald-Dispatch quoted "several Washington sources close to the NTSB" as saying the report on the disaster which claimed the lives of most of Marshall's football team and coaching staff among the 75 deaths, is ambiguous and very light on recommendations for the FAA to follow.

Safe Cigarette Possible, But Will There Be Market?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal researcher says a safer, even absolutely safe, cigarette can be devised. But would it sell?

"We must take out the danger and leave in the pleasure," said Dr. Gio Gori, head of the major effort in safer-cigarette research, the Tobacco Working Group at the National Institute of Health.

For two years he and his colleagues have been peering at smoke condensate applied to rat tissue and chicken tracheas. These tests are still to be evaluated and they will lead to more in the next two years.

But Gori said the technical knowledge now exists for developing a less hazardous cigarette.

A perfectly safe cigarette today would filter everything from tobacco smoke. "We have the means of a 100-per-cent filter, but all you would have is hot air," Gori explained.

So the answer involves in no small way the reason people smoke, a relatively undefined field requiring much more study, Gori said.

For instance, a safer cigarette would have less nicotine. Experimental tobacco strains with little or no nicotine in them could be developed in two or three years for a commercially productive harvest, Gori said. But, he added, would smokers stick with a low-or zero-nicotine cigarette or simply smoke many more of them to make up for the loss?

Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld raised the same point in a report Monday calling for renewed efforts to develop safe cigarettes.

The report said scientists no longer question the danger of smoking, a statement attacked by the Tobacco Institute as false and misleading.

Steinfeld called that statement "self-serving" and accused the tobacco industry Tuesday of endangering the public health by purposely clouding the hazards of cigarette smoking.

Dr. Gori said he does not know if the safer cigarette his group can now devise would be less hazardous than all brands on the market. "We haven't tested all the brands."

Senate hearings have been called to consider legislating tar-and-nicotine limits.

Western New York State Can't Meet Air Standards

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Environmental Conservation Department says stringent new federal standards for air quality cannot be met in some parts of the heavily industrialized Buffalo area of western New York, even with the best antipollution technology now known.

In an air quality implementation plan prepared for submission to the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the department reported Tuesday that standards for particulate matter in the air—dirt and soot, for example—cannot be met in south Buffalo, Lackawanna, Tonawanda, North Tonawanda or Niagara Falls.

The state is requiring industries in those areas to use the best available means to cut down on pollution, the report said, but unless technical breakthroughs occur within the next few years that will not be enough.

The only alternative—shutting down those industries which cannot be sufficiently controlled—was rejected because of its impact on already high unemployment in the Buffalo area, the plan said.

The 1970 Federal Clean Air Act requires the states to submit a plan for meeting two levels of air-quality control for six kinds of air pollution.

The first, or primary, level sets standards which are considered necessary for the maintenance of health. The stricter secondary standards are those considered necessary for "social well-being."

States must meet the primary standards by 1975, although they can get a two-year extension if technology is not available. The secondary standards must be met within a "reasonable time" thereafter.

The state plan says that federal primary standards for sulfur dioxide in the air can be met by 1975 in all areas of Upstate New York, but that the secondary standards will not be met in south Buffalo, Lackawanna, Tonawanda, North Tonawanda or Albany.

The other federal air-quality standards—for carbon monoxide, photochemical oxidants, hydrocarbons and nitrogen dioxide—will generally be met after the 1975 automobile-emission controls take effect, the state plans said.

City Of Metropolis, Illinois Takes Superman To Heart

By PENNIE SUE THURMAN
Associated Press Writer
METROPOLIS, ILL. (AP) — Superman, that fearless crusader for truth, justice and the American way, is being adopted by the citizens of Metropolis.

"This is not a sham or a joke," says Bob Westerfield, a Metropolis resident who first thought of using the Man of Steel to put Metropolis on the map. "We intend to treat Superman in the proper perspective."

Westerfield and the Metropolis Chamber of Commerce say they already have the backing of National Periodicals, Inc., which publishes Superman comic books.

"They've promised to send us the uniform George Reeves wore in the original television series," Westerfield, 43, said. "We also plan to set up a committee to read and answer letters mailed to Superman in care of Metropolis."

This is the only Metropolis listed in the U.S. postal guide. The Superman known to generations of Americans came to a fictional city called Metropolis in a rocket, sent by his parents who died when the planet of Krypton blew up. Raised as Clark Kent by a middle-class American couple, he went to work as a reporter on the Metropolis Daily Planet, shedding his mild-mannered cover when he was needed to fight crime.

The Illinois Metropolis, on the Ohio River, is hardly the place for a big-time crime fighter. The town's 7,000 citizens, however, are working on the image. One of the proposals would change the name of the Metropolis Daily News, a weekly newspaper, to the Metropolis Daily Planet.

Other ideas are to use a Superman letterhead on the city's stationery and put a 20-foot illuminated Superman figure on the city's water tower.

"That tower is 200 feet high," Westerfield says. "You could see him from anywhere in Massac County."

Harold Mescher, president of the Chamber of Commerce, says that businesses, for a fee, will be able to buy certificates of membership in a Superman Club. By proclamation, visiting dignitaries also will be designated honorary Supermen. Money from the membership fees is earmarked for the city treasury.

However, there are no signs that the South Vietnamese will try to get the jump on the North Vietnamese with a repetition of last year's invasion into Laos. For one thing, there are not enough U.S. combat forces left in Vietnam to give them the massive support that even last year wasn't enough to make the operation successful.

There is great concern that the Communist command will attempt offensives on several fronts during the Tet celebration of the lunar new year, which begins Feb. 15.

In addition to the buildups in the central highlands and at the western end of the DMZ, small-scale fighting has increased in the Saigon region, and there are reports that two North Vietnamese regiments have crossed from Cambodia into the area surrounding South Vietnam's capital.

Senior U.S. diplomats believe the Communists will attempt an offensive in the central highlands to coincide with President Nixon's trip to Peking during the last week of February, their purpose being to embarrass him by a show of strength. These sources predict another offensive along the DMZ in the summer or fall to hurt Nixon's chances for re-election.
